Judge Hadley Cautions Out-of-Town Drunks

Today was another day in police court for nearly all of the offenders who went out of town. Judge Hadley, in Bridgewater, a second offender, could not help but notice the number of people who were in Lowell, yet, was fined $5.

"We are overrunning people who come from outside of Lowell and get drunk. I want to inform you men from out of town that if you intend to stay here you must be sober if you don't I will send you to Bridgewater."

The following is a list of first offenders, who were given $2 each, also their relatives: Michael Callahan, Cambridge; Thomas Lynch, Boston; John J. Shea, Fitchburg; Denis Lyons, Boston; Martin Kennedy, Lynn; John P. Dwyer, Boston; John Foley, Boston.

Philip H. Brown of Lawrence, a parole man from the state farm, will be returned to that institution.

Robert Day, of Chelmsford, who was found the other a few days ago, is again before the court and was fined $5.

Owing to the circumstances connected with the case, Rattner was placed on probation. There are now two cases pending against him and in the event of his continuing to sell liquor he will receive a severe sentence.

ARCHBISHOP O'CONNELL MASSACHUSETTS MILLS

ARCHBISHOP O'CONNELL

Great Additions to be Made to the Plant

Plans for big additions to the Massachusetts mills are in order and applications for permits to build have been made. In view of the fact that other mills are contemplating substantial additions it does not seem as if there was much to fear from such competition and it speaks well for the status of the textile industry in this section.

It was announced in these columns some time ago that the Massachusetts corporation was contemplating the erection of new buildings, but nothing definite as to purpose or dimensions was measurable at that time. It seems, however, that the additions are to be of greater magnitude than at first supposed. The specifications include two new buildings, one fronting on the Merrimack and the other on the Concord rivers. Both buildings will be of brick with solid concrete foundations. The one on the Concord river will be two stories high and will extend from the bridge for a distance of 346 feet. It will be in the form of a triangle with a base of about 92 feet. The plants will call for a concrete wall about 15 feet deep and 8 feet at base, sloping up to about 2 feet at top. Then there are three concrete piers 11 feet deep and the putting up of the foundation and the piers will be very expensive job. Both of these buildings will be erected on the remaining land, so-called. The building fronting on the Merrimack river will stretch along the front of the new long story brick building which was built about four years ago.

The new building will extend from the latter house, backwards for a distance of 42 feet, with an average width of about 58 feet. It will be a one story building about 30 feet high. Both buildings will be of fireproof construction with 15 inch thick walls. The cost of the foundation to this building is in course of construction. This building will be used as a wheel and turbine house.

FOR FLAG DAY IN REAL ESTATE

Mayor Brown Urges Its Observance

The following "flag day" proclamation, requesting a wide observance of the day, has been issued by Mayor Brown:

Lowell, Mass., June 11, 1909.

To the People of Lowell:

The flags of our great nation will wave with peculiar significance on Monday, June 14, which is the 122d anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes. It was adopted by the old congress when the new-born republic was struggling into life. Our armies first went to combat under it when Washington was their commander-in-chief. In the days of adversity we have turned to it for support. In these days of peace and prosperity we give it to the winds as the expression of our thankfulness and joy. It has been made sacred by holy associations, but the highest and most endearing remembrances we have of it are those of our fathers who battled for freedom and independence under it, and who in civil strife that it might be preserved as our symbol of sovereignty and power.

The people of our city, with a patriotic appreciation of this day, which will be given such widespread recognition on Monday, should assist in the proper observance of the anniversary, and make "Flag Day" in Lowell one of patriotic sentiment as well. Let the flags be unfurled in every section of the city at sunrise from our public buildings, our schools, and our churches, and let every citizen have share in this anniversary by displaying from the house-tops the United States colors.

Americans venerate their flag as they love their country, but there are times we forget the true significance of the colors. The soldiers and officers of our regular army and of the militia forces always salute the flag when it passes by. Our veneration and love for the colors should be so great that as private citizens we should never allow the colors or uncased standards to pass us without our heads being bared or our hands raised in salute.

Our school children are being taught the history of the flag, and on Monday millions of little ones throughout the land will raise their hands and swear allegiance to the country for which it stands, one nation indivisible. If arrangements have not already been made in our local schools, I would suggest that each teacher read to her class the story of the Stars and Stripes, and that the ceremony of the "oath of allegiance" be followed by the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

The first official action taken with regard to a national flag was on June 14, 1777, when the Continental congress passed a resolution: "That the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

It seems that the first use of the Stars and Stripes on land was at Fort Stanwix, where a hastily improvised flag was raised over some captured British colors. In 1818 the number of stars having increased to 20, congress enacted that the number of stripes be reduced to thirteen (one having been added with each new state), to typify the original thirteen states, and that the number of stars be increased to twenty; and that "on the admission of every new state into the Union, one star be added to the union of the flag, and that such addition shall take effect on the Fourth of July next, succeeding such admission." This in brief is the history of the flag which now flies unquestioned over the country and her possessions, and for whose preservation thousands of our fathers and countrymen have sacrificed their lives.

It would be fitting, it seems to me, in every pulpit and class room, some mention were made on Sunday of this anniversary. And as we pass the no-sie banner, or it passes us, not only on Monday next, but on every day in the year, may we sing in our hearts,

"Forever may it wave
Over the land of the free
And the home of the brave."
(Signed)
George H. Brown, Mayor.

MISS MAUDE ADAMS AS JOAN OF ARC IN GREAT PAGEANT IN HARVARD'S STADIUM

hearts of trees, which are of little value for boards on account of shakes and other defects, are usually sawed into two by four to two by twelve, and sometimes six by six and six by eight inch building timbers. These timbers have small values in the large markets, but near the mills the local trade exhausts the supply.

For the manufacture of slack barrels red gum is one of the most important woods in the country, ranking second to elm, both as a stave and a heading wood. Up to the year 1900, elm and a little cottonwood were used for this purpose, but with the advance in price of these woods a substitute had to be found, and red gum, owing to its cheapness, was permitted with and found quite satisfactory.

The chief objection to red gum is its strong tendency to warp and twist. This can be entirely removed by proper handling. Were the lumber of high price this difficulty would have been considered and overcome long ago, and the wood used, but on account of its abundance and cheapness, very few operators have turned their attention to solving the problem.

The preparation of red gum lumber for any purpose should begin when the tree is felled. To guard against straining and warping, it is handled in much the same way as other woods, but with the important difference that the piles are narrower, so that the air may circulate freely and thus prevent fermentation of the sap, and that the cross sticks must be placed close together. It has also been found well to place heavy weights on the ends of red gum when they are sent to the kiln. Every manufacturer of high grade furniture and trim knows, that to secure the best possible results, the material must be dried when it reaches the factory. Some large users of red gum take the stock after it has been carried awhile, and bulk it down with cross sticks every five or six layers, so as to straighten out whatever twist there may be in the boards. This automatically assures the elimination of twining and warping.

It can be handled in this way to much better advantage than where an effort is made to straighten it out by force, when cutting up the stock and preparing it for use; for, when the pressure is applied gradually, there is no loss by reason of breakage or splitting.

After the air has been dried and tempered in the kiln, it is ready to go to market. Some manufacturers still use the old method of drying the lumber in the sun, but this is not recommended.

Red gum is a valuable wood, and the lumber industry of the country has been provided with much valuable information by the investigations which have been made through the scientific study of many species of trees, against the use of which there has been a prejudice for one reason or other, and from an economic standpoint this is one of the most important phases of the forest work of the government.

The latest discoveries of valuable qualities in a former neglected species resulted after an investigation of the red gum, sometimes commercially called "eastern walnut," which finds its home in the hardwood bottom lands and drier swamps of the south, in mixture with ash, cottonwood, and oak.

This tree is one of the commonest timber trees of the south, reaching its best development in the deep, rich soil of the bottoms, where it often attains a height of 150 feet and a diameter of five feet.

Were red gum imported from a distance and obtainable only at a high price, it probably would be used extensively in the manufacture of furniture, cabinet work, and interior finishing, but being native wood and low in price, it has been discriminated against.

Gradually this objection is being done away with, and the demand for red gum has increased very rapidly in the past few years.

The best grades of red gum, clear heart, find a market almost exclusively in the export trade, though a small amount is used in the United States for inside finishing.

Practically seventy-five per cent of the clear heart gum lumber cut in this country is exported for use in England, France, and Germany, for the manufacture of furniture, inside trimmings, panel posts, and stair railings.

The commoner grades of red gum are used in the United States for cheap furniture, desks, better grades of boxes, and a number of novelties.

The poorest grade goes into boxes, barrels, and other articles for which short, narrow boards can be used.

The inner portion of the trunk is a valuable material, and is used for veneer.

A special train was sent from Houston today with a steam engine and a squad of firemen who, however, owing to the lack of water had to abandon the village. Before the locomotive reached the village the flames had broken out of its cars on a siding, and were raged for by the villagers. In all 12 buildings were destroyed, but few of them were of great value, and the financial loss will not exceed $1000.

For several days the flames have extended along a line for 20 miles in Northern Aransas.

The width of the fire zone is about five miles, and the territory represents about 100 square miles.

For several days the flames have extended along a line for 20 miles in Northern Aransas.

The width of the fire zone is about five miles, and the territory represents about 100 square miles.

A special train was sent from Houston today with a steam engine and a squad of firemen who, however, owing to the lack of water had to abandon the village.

PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Two Men Arraigned on a Charge of Murder

CAMBRIDGE, June 12.—Two men, a lad wounded in his head, was still very charged with the murder of six people, and the wounding of four others. John Westley Brown, colored, was killed by a white man, and his wife, Laura Brown, wounded her sister and then attempted suicide in Newton last February, and John Murphy, who ran a mill in the North Pacific company's big-killing factory last Saturday, pleaded not guilty in the Middlesex superior court yesterday. Brown, who still has a bullet in his side, and

TWO VIEWS OF SAM LANGFORD, WHO RECENTLY WON ENGLISH CHAMPIONSHIP

NEW YORK, June 12.—Negro gladiators have figured prominently in the gladiatorial competition for nearly 60 years, but never before have they offered such a copper riveted studded hold on everything in sight, as they hold at this moment. Not only is Jack Johnson, champion of America and of the world, but Pug Anderson, another American negro, is champion of France, and a third one, Sam Langford, is champion of England, Ireland and Wales. Langford recently defeated Jim Hague, the English heavyweight, for the title. In four rounds, Samuel is now hot on the trail of Johnson. The pair met once, and the latter received the decision, but Langford points to the fact that when he and Johnson met some years ago he (Langford) weighed about 110 pounds to 200 for Johnson and that the latter got so spirited a thumping from the smaller man that he has no further desire for a meeting. Langford declares that he has now grown much heavier and would enter the ring at about 170 pounds. At this weight he is confident he would be able to make it still more interesting for the champion.

Everything is high class and

This picture is regarded as being the very best ever shown on a screen and in Europe it has been the subject of many magazine articles. In this country it has been approved of by prominent writers and without a doubt it will create a big sensation here. Then the illustrated songs sung in that different way will be sure to please.

The other singers who will sing during the concert are Miss May V. Dugan, Mr. Frank Goldsmith, and John J. Dalton, Lowell's favorite bartenders.

A large number of his friends called upon him and during the evening presented him a gold watch and chain. The presentation was made by John Mullin and the young host recited in a brief speech. A musical and literary program was carried on during the evening, gavels were sounded and refreshments served.

Five men employed at the Englewood Co. narrowly escaped being seriously injured Thursday morning, when a big car containing 55 tons of soft coal crashed through the coal dump in the rear of the mill.

The car had been backed over the dump and the men were about to unload it when the timber upon which the rails rested gave away, the car falling through to the dump below. The five men were stationed on the top of the dump near the car when it fell, but luckily the sounding of the crashing timbers gave the men enough warning for them to make their escape.

VERDICT OF $100 TIMBER BURNING

In Case Against City in Superior Court

The jury in the case of Tritts vs. City of Lowell returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $100.

In the case of Mann vs. Moore Spinning Company in which the defendant submitted an amended answer to the effect that the plaintiff had released the defendant from all liability, and accompanied with a release signed by Mann acknowledging satisfaction on the amount of $9, the court ruled that the question whether or not the plaintiff had released the defendant from liability, should first be passed upon by the jury and evidence on this issue alone was admitted. It was not completed when the session was adjourned.

Mr. Dunbar first called the plaintiff and showed him a paper which he admitted he signed. It was a receipt to the Moore Spinning company, for the sum of nine dollars, "in full satisfaction and discharge of all claims against us to accrue in respect to 16 juries," etc.

In reply to questions by his counsel, Mr. Bent, the plaintiff stated that he signed the paper at St. John's hospital on the 10th day of August, 1907. He received the injury on the 20th day of June, that year. His eye was cut so that the doctor had to take three stitches in it. He remained at the hospital two months and the eye was removed in September. He said that on the 19th of August, Mr. Thompson, the paymaster of the defendant company, came to the hospital to see him, but did not pay him any money. He was in great pain all of the time, so that he could not read the paper when it was submitted to him, and it was not read to him. He understood that it was a release from the hospital. He understood that the nine dollars was paid to the head sister, and thought it was for his treatment. He relied on Mr. Thompson's statement that it was a release from the hospital.

Mr. John Thompson, cashier of the defendant company was called and he testified that he visited Mann at the hospital on August 19. He told him the hospital had sent the company a bill for $9. He showed the release to the plaintiff who looked at it and then asked about getting his work back again.

The witness said that he went out to a nearby drugstore to get a pen and ink for Mr. Mann to initial signing the receipt, and that when he turned Mann was looking at the paper over, and apparently reading it again. On the 10th of August, in the same place, he had made a mistake in asking him to sign a receipt to the employees of the Moore Spinning company instead of to the Moore Spinning company, and he asked him if he had any objection to signing another paper to correct the mistake. This the plaintiff did. The witness said he had instructed him from the Boston office to relieve Mr. Mann from the bill of nine dollars tendered to the company, on his signing the receipt.

Both the receipts testified to by Mr. Thompson were shown in evidence.

Both witnesses testified that no party was present when Mr. Mann signed the receipt.

GREAT LEGACY

Left by M. Chauhard of Paris

PARIS, June 12.—The legacies of M. Chauhard, the wealthy proprietor of the Magasins du Louvre, who died last week, continue to attract attention. It has been learned that in his original will in 1905 he left $1,500,000 to the employees of his store and important legacies to societies. George Leygues was given $1,000,000. A codicil, drawn up in 1907 and dated two days after M. Chauhard received the grand cross of the Legion of Honor, reduced the inheritance to his employees to $600,000, left out the societies entirely and increased Mr. Leygues' inheritance to $3,000,000. On account of the opposition manifested by the societies, M. Leygues has withdrawn his offer of $100,000 to the chamber of deputies pension fund.

The town of Presque Isle which suffered a heavy loss by fire on Monday was again seriously threatened and all the able bodied men of the town were laboring throughout the night to keep the flames from the forest fires from causing further destruction in the village. Early today the town was completely cut off from telephone or telegraphic communication.

Feared that they would meet the same fate as the little village of Hillman, which was entirely consumed last night, made the inhabitants of the threatened village more alert today toward any approach of the flames upon the outlying mills and houses, many of which required constant watching to prevent the fires from obtaining a foothold.

FIRE UNDER CONTROL

CALAIS, Me., June 12.—The situation hereabouts as regards forest fires was more reassuring today. Those fires near the principal part of the city were either burned out or under control, but a big fire was still raging in the vicinity of Read Beach although the absence of the high wind which prevails for days relieved the situation somewhat.

DANGER PASSED

PRESQUE ISLE, Me., June 12.—Very light showers and no wind today were responsible for a feeling that the danger line on the forest fires near here had been passed. The spectacular fire on Quaker Mt. Mountain, which threatened 100 acres of woodland owned by J. G. Whidden and the buildings of Able Reed had somewhat subsided.

In order to insure the safety of storehouses on the line of the Bangor & Aroostook railroad through here, the manager of Mr. Corey's French estate, who was very seriously injured in the accident so as to send all freight trains through in the night time and thus avoid the dangers of starting fires from engine sparks.

The price of potatoes has taken a leap as one result of the burning of the potato storehouses in the conflagration here Monday night. It was $2 a barrel today with not enough left for home consumption. All dealers except one who had 100 barrels have sold out or lost their supply.

Mrs. Felix King, Mrs. Edward Nadeau and others are suffering with burns on the neck and shoulders sustained while escaping from their burning homes and passing along the streets Monday night. The relief committee meets daily and active service is being rendered constantly. Much clothing has been dispensed.

SOME FLEECING SUITS

The man of wealth must nowadays have a care as to the character of the women whom he allows to make his acquaintance outside his own city or town if he does not want to have a blackmail suit on his hands with breach of promise or something else as the pretext.

The female adventurers who trump up suits of one kind or another for the purpose of fleecing wealthy men are made more numerous by the ease with which they get through the divorce court. In the majority of cases the wealthy man settles, even though he is not guilty, just to avoid the notoriety of defending himself against such a suit.

THE LATE COL. MCCLURE AND HIS WORK.

The death of Col. Alexander Kelley McClure in his 82nd year removes one of the old-time journalists who devoted his talents largely to a defense of popular rights against political rings, grafters and demagogues. He had been for many years a prominent figure in the political and journalistic life of Pennsylvania, and few men of his day performed better service for the state and the city in which he lived.

Col. McClure was a man of many attainments. As a writer he was bold, clear, incisive and prolific. His vision was true and his instincts humane and honorable. He was the foe of political bosses and of the corruption that usually follows in their wake. This was clearly shown while he was at the head of the Philadelphia Times, a paper which became remarkable throughout the United States for its advocacy of clean government and its devotion to the rights of the people in general.

Col. McClure's example is worthy of imitation by the younger journalists of today. If journalism has a mission it is to serve the people, to stand for the public good, to expose shams and humbugs, to prevent political corruption whether by opposing the election of bad men to office or by turning the searchlight of publicity upon the officials who conspire to rob the city, the state or the nation. It was a grievous loss to Philadelphia and indeed to the entire state of Pennsylvania when business reverses and advancing years combined to remove Col. McClure from the field of journalism in which he was such an able and conspicuous leader.

DR. WASHINGTON AND THE NEGRO PROBLEM.

The lecture by Booker T. Washington before the High school alumni Wednesday evening was highly interesting and instructive. It brought to the attention of the audience the various problems confronting the negroes in the south; and the fact that Dr. Washington is himself one of the chief factors in promoting the education, the industry and the progress of the negro race in the south. The institution over which he presides is one of the most important, but there are scores of others working along the same lines, that is, in teaching the people the art of self help.

The mere ability to read and write would not uplift the negroes to any great extent, although of course these are among the foremost essentials, because after the negro learns to read and write he is prepared to advance along other lines of knowledge and activity most essential for his industrial development.

The purpose of the education is to develop self-help and self-reliance as well as to impart knowledge. There is no doubt whatever that the negro race in the south is making progress wherever these self-help institutions are doing their work among the people. It was well demonstrated by Dr. Washington that a spread of the practical education given under his direction at the Tuskegee institute would prevent the commission of crime and the consequent lynchings. It would teach the negroes self-reliance, self-respect, independence and obedience to law.

He demonstrated also that the negro race is not as some people suppose incapable of high education and development. The work of the educational institutions in the south have demonstrated that. Give them but fair opportunities and they will advance rapidly in spite of the fact that they have been oppressed, neglected, abused and calumniated.

It is true as he said that when anything of a criminal nature occurs in the south it is heralded all over the country; but when the negroes build houses, establish banks, start new industries or make progress in other lines, the rest of the country hears nothing about it; and so it is that while we hear little that is good from the south, yet the people in various states are making steady progress. In some places it is slow, of course, on account of lack of opportunity; but in others it is as rapid as could be expected. The states do not expend much money for education in the south and education of the young is not compulsory as it is here. Nevertheless, the percentage of illiterates is being reduced and the negro is showing an aptitude for adapting himself to a higher state of civilization than that to which he has been accustomed. All these things are very encouraging and go to show that only a wise policy by the government is needed to solve the negro problem. Industrial education of the self-help character prescribed by Dr. Washington is one of the most essential. The negro will also require of course to be brought under religious influences that will impress upon him his responsibility to himself, to his neighbor and God so that he may become imbued with Christian principles that will make him a peaceful and law-abiding citizen. These things are necessary, therefore, for the complete uplift of the negro race. These are the school, the church and institutions for self-help and industrial training. After these have done their work the enforcement of law will become an easy matter. It is the fault of the government that lynchings are allowed to occur at frequent intervals without bringing the guilty parties to justice. If the legal authorities convicted some of the lynchers and sent them to the gallows there would soon be an end to lynching in the south. That is one of the blots upon the south that should be removed without further delay. In no other civilized land could a lynching take place without any attempt to punish the offenders and not until the south has stamped out this evil will the negro race feel that they are treated on an equality with the white people.

Pimples, Rash, Eruptions, Etc., Quickly Eradicated by New Skin Remedy.

Since its discovery one year ago, postum, the new skin remedy, has, in its extraordinary accomplishments, exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the eminent specialists who gave it to the world. It has cured thousands of cases of eczema and eradicated facial and other disfigurements of year's standing. The terrible itching attending eczema is stopped with the first application, giving proof of its curative properties at the very outset.

In less serious skin afflictions, such as pimples, rash, herpes, blackheads, acne, bather's itch, etc., results show after an overnight application, only a small quantity being required to effect a cure. Those who use postum for those minor skin troubles can now avail themselves of the special 50-cent package, recently adopted to meet such needs. Both the 50-cent package and the regular $2 jar may now be obtained in Fall & Burkhardt's, Carter & Shurburne's and other leading drug stores in Lowell.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Ambassador Takahira, of Japan, will deliver the baccalaureate address at the graduating exercises of the University of Illinois at Champaign. He will leave Washington for the west on Thursday.

Miss Margaret Baylor, formerly of Boston, has accepted the superintendence of an institution in Cincinnati for working girls, modelled on the lines of the Franklin Square House, Rev. James O. Wright. She has raised money enough among public-spirited people of that city, including Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Taft, to provide a hundred-room building, with which the enterprise will begin its work.

In the belief that the active work of the Baptist ministry is more congenial to his tastes and better fitted to his ability, Dr. W. R. Hutchinson, for two years president of Arcadia university, has resigned and will assume an active pastorate. The resignation is effective at once, but Dr. Hutchinson has not yet decided upon his future place of work. His two years at Arcadia have been fruitful ones for the institution, and it was with great regret that the board of government accepted his resignation. Dr. Hutchinson, who is forty-eight years old, graduated from Arcadia in 1886. He studied theology at Newton, Toronto, and Rochester, N. Y., seminaries. He has held pastorates at Quebec and at Topeka and Lawrence in Kansas. It was from the skill and pluck of a 16 year old girl, also a passenger on the launch, Joseph Romano, aged 17 years, who is badly burned about the head and arms, is the most seriously hurt, while Philomeno Shirigai, a 16 year old girl who received painful burns about the face, was the heroine of the accident. When the explosion occurred Philomeno with the others at once jumped into the water. The flames had burned her face painfully and her clothing was ablaze, but being an expert swimmer she thought only of her companions. Near her was Mary Palermo, aged 18, floundering helplessly, and swimming up to her, Philomeno held the girl's head above the water and swam with her to a nearby log where she left her charge and turned back to an unknown Italian youth called Nick, whom she also assisted to the log. There the three clung until two boys in a row boat picked them up. The others were rescued by the drawbridge at the Charlestown bridge. None of the injured is fatally hurt. The launch is a total loss.

THE NEW FANS

These Dainty Accessories
Are Especially Beautiful
This Season

FOR at least two centuries the fan has been one of the most delightful accessories of the feminine toilet. And this summer the new wind wafters are exquisitely beautiful, especially those designed to be used with period costumes, which are a fad of the season. Many lovely but inexpensive fans are to be found at a Broadway shop that deals in wares from the land of the mikado. In this display is a dainty little specimen of carved sandalwood with a painted or stamped design in soft old rose and dull green tones all over its surface. The fan is moderately priced at $1.50, and it would be reasonable at twice the amount, as a sandalwood fan is not only artistic to the eye and pleasant to the olfactory organ, but has the added advantage of combining well with most costumes. A fan of black liberty silk, spangled with steel whose sticks are inlaid with the same metal, is in the same collection and is certainly alluring enough to appeal to a Spanish donna, for who can wield the fan so successfully as the Spanish girl? And in the land of Spain the fan speaks a particular language, and gallantry requires no other mode to express its most subtle conceits than through this delicate machine.

In the hands of the powdered duchesses and marquises of Louis XIV's reign the fan was a weapon and a symbol. It had, like diplomats, a language of its own, which was learned by every woman before she entered society. With it could be expressed a wish, a promise, a refusal or a pardon. In Persia, Egypt, Greece and Rome fans were in early use. The Egyptians carried a peculiar arrangement made of a bird's wing extended, while in Greece the round peacock feather fan was the favorite. Roman ladies appeared in public wafting thin tablets of sandalwood, and a lurid light is cast upon the customs of the middle ages in Italy by the fact that several dainty fans are preserved with a concealed dagger in the handle of each. The fan's first appearance in England was made in the reign of Richard II. The virgin queen, the fair Elizabeth, is said to have owned no less than twenty-seven fans, one handsome specimen costing $200, a large sum in those days. Elizabeth originated the custom that the only gift a queen could receive was a fan, and truly worthy of royalty's men," she said. "The equality of opportunity and the diversified duties all this seems to me splendid, just as things should be."

"I wish this rule of justice existed between men and women everywhere, and I wish the American woman was including Barnard, and before various branches of the French alliance, and has given special courses at the Chicago university. She spent some weeks in Washington, where Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand gave a dinner in her honor at the French embassy. Mlle. Ducreux is a learned young woman, holding a diploma from the School of Living Oriental Languages in Paris and several other honors.

Mlle. Ducreux has only one fear about the American woman—she thinks she may become selfish. "Women in this country have so much liberty," she said, "and almost always the privileged bring grows selfish. And the selfishness of women is more odious because more against nature than the selfishness of men."

In spite of this danger, she thinks the American woman's liberty rather a fine thing. "Work and responsibility will be the redemption of your women," she said. "The equality of opportunity and the diversified duties all this seems to me splendid, just as things should be."

"I wish this rule of justice existed between men and women everywhere, and I wish the American woman was the Japanese, I believe, have the honor of inventing the first collapsible or folding fans, about 750 A. D. They have kept right on adding to their clever inventions in this direction. Their latest idea of the collapsible type is a charming affair that looks when closed like a bunch of pink roses, but when a little silk string hidden among the posies is pulled a good sized fan of white silk appears with a border of pink roses. These fans have been favorite graduating presents this year. Another lovely little fan of oriental origin is a round affair of white silk covered with cherry blossoms in natural coloring, done in a silky fabric. On the reverse side is this verse in Japanese characters:

Shikijimano Yamabe
Gokorawa
Hito towaba
Ashihi niwot
Tama Sakura kana.

Translated into English it would read something like this: If you should ask the Japanese where is the Japanese heart he would point to the cherry blossoms waving in the morning sun. There is the Japanese heart.

The decoration of fans has always proved fascinating to French artists, and such masters as Fragonard, Boucher, Watteau and Lancret did not consider the painting of lovely figures on the dainty fans as beneath their dignity. In the Louis XIV period they were beautifully finished by the four Martin brothers with a bright varnish that gave the palatines an appearance of enamel which is known even to this day as "Vernis Martin." A number of the handsomest fans of the summer are copies of the work of these old French masters, and when hung from chains of gold or semiprecious stones the effect is quaint and lovely. There is, too, a fancy for suspending these tiny fans of the season from black grosgrain ribbon and carrying them over the wrist.

One could write indefinitely about fans of the past and present, but there is a pretty mythological origin that is pleasant to remember in connection with them which runs as follows: As Psyche was sleeping one day on a bank of flowers Zephyr's wings kept covering over her. After a time jealous Cupid plucked off one of Zephyr's wings and gave it to Psyche that she might ever have cooling breezes.

AMERICAN WOMAN'S LIBERTY.

Too Much of It May Lead to Selfishness, Says Mlle. Ducreux.

Another foreigner is added to the list of those who came saw and were impressed with the United States and the opportunities here, especially the opportunities of women. Mlle. She has had a good chance to observe, for in her eight months in this country she has traveled about a great deal; has visited before many women's colleges,

WOMEN WHO LIVE IN THE RUT

Too Much Dressmaker, Too Much Nursery and Too Much Kitchen Life in Order to "Feed the Brute"

Narrow Sphere of the Sex

THE reason so many women are dull is that they do not take an interest in the broader life around them.

Their minds are set on the kitchen, the nursery and the dressmaker, which is, of course, just and right, but why stop there?

These good mothers and housekeepers never take interest in anything save what relates to their craft. Now and then they dabble in a little poetry or fiction, but that is their extreme limit. When they subscribe to a magazine, even, it is apt to be one dealing with household matters.

Now, the great thing in this world both for men and women is to keep both balanced. When we allow ourselves to go along one solitary line we become cranks of a mild or rabid sort.

When you feel yourself drifting toward the impractical, read technical articles, diet yourself on common sense.

When you think only of your own affairs and business, read the daily papers and interest yourself in the sorrows and achievements of other people.

Broaden out, you women, and make your scope of interest the whole world. How many members of my sex there are who have never been taught to sew!

This is a disgrace, and I say shame on the girl who is not able to make her own dresses and trim her own hats! She may never need to do so, but how helpless she is if she doesn't know how!

The mothers are to blame without a doubt both when they neglect to teach this craft and when they teach it in an unattractive manner.

Let the little girl make something for herself instead of hemming endless towels and pillowcases. Even if it is only a handkerchief it will rouse her interest. Teach her to mend her own clothes early in life and to take pride in the fact that they are kept neat and trim.

And perhaps the best way of all is to help her to make dolls' clothes. Miniature patterns come for them as correctly designed as those for real people, and the little girl who makes dolls' clothes correctly will not have much difficulty later on with her own.

It takes tact to arouse interest in occupations which the average child finds dull, but if you bring in the personal element half the battle is won.

It does not begin good to see how women all over the world are improving. Of course the little girls do something foolish every now and then, but I am speaking of the great mass of women.

In the old days when a thing went wrong the average wife and mother would weep and wring her hands. Now she sits up and does something to remedy it.

We are learning more and more the importance of hygiene and better able to matters of hygiene, women have which she manages largely herself. She has pet dogs and ponies and little afraid of fresh air. The wife is pigeons which sit on her shoulders. The one who wants the window open, is her delight to take long drives and drop into a hotel or inn for dinner.

Not so long ago she and her husband hadly universal, and the cold shower after it is in great demand.

Now that bise-a-brac is out of style women have learned to depend upon beauty of line and spacious effects in designing their interior decoration effects, and the home is much better alighted and swept.

A MEATLESS DIET.

NOW that warm weather is approaching the careful housewife plans to lessen her meat bill by frequently arranging a menu minus meat.

She has an immense supply of sea food upon which to draw and several satisfactory substitutes for meat which remains very costly.

Rice is an invaluable summer dish it may be boiled in milk, with mush, cream added; in the many Italian

Spaghetti is another palatable and nutritious substitute for meat, served with browned butter, with cracker crumbs, roasted in butter, with parmesan cheese, with tomatoes or any of the other fresh vegetables. It may be baked in alternating layers with fish, with forced ham or hash or with fried onions.

FOUR MEN KILLED By the Collapse of a Floor in Detroit

DETROIT, June 12.—A floor at the plant of the Peninsula Stove Works on West Fort street caved in today and it is reported that four men are killed. Fire followed the collapse.

DROP TO DEATH ARE BEING CHECKED BY THUNDER SHOWERS

Mother Saw Her Child's Fatal Drop

NEW YORK, June 12.—It was so warm and pleasant last night that Mrs. Selina Chisholm broke her usual rule and allowed her little daughters, Elizabeth, aged 3 and Alice aged 4, to sit out upon the fire-escape in the rear of their sixth-floor tenement, at No. 43 East One Hundred and Thirty-third street. They played that it was a porch, and that their soap boxes were luxurious porch chairs.

Alice, gleeful over being in the open, stood up and danced upon her soap box. It brought her waist almost to the guard rail of the fire-escape. Then she stood pressed against the rail and looked down into the yard, holding her doll over the edge, and pretended to let it fall.

By accident, it did fall. With a little cry Alice grabbed for it. She didn't get it, and losing her balance, followed it herself. Elizabeth screamed and jumped to the rail, but her fingers just missed her little sister's skirt.

Strung across a pole in the centre of the yard was a stout clothesline. Against this Alice fell, just about on a level with the floor of the fire-escape. Elizabeth made another desperate grab, and this time got her hands between the rails in time to grip the smaller girl's clothing.

Just then Mrs. Chisholm, brought by the cries, reached the window leading to the fire-escape. She caught a glimpse of Elizabeth holding Alice's plump and heavy little body, and realized that the elder child's strength couldn't last very long. She tore frantically at the window, which she herself had pulled down. To her horror, it stuck fast. An automatic catch held it.

For a full minute she writhed at the thing, beating it with her fists and tugging at the clasp with her fingers. Then while she watched, Elizabeth's fingers relaxed their painful hold and finally let go altogether. There was a downward dash of white through the airway, and then the mother fell back upon the floor in a fit of hysterics. Elizabeth threw herself upon the floor of the fire-escape and screamed so that neighbors all along the block heard her.

Alice, in the 60-foot fall, was killed instantly.

IMPERIAL PRESS CONFERENCE

FORTSMOUTH, June 12.—The delegations to the imperial press conference who are spending the day here as the guests of the admiralty have witnessed a naval review in that represents a concentration of seapower unparalleled in the history of the world.

Stretched out in seven lines in the far famed roadstead and extending from Cowes road to the seafront guarding the entrance to Spithead the visitors saw the warhead of the British navy, that is to say that section of the fleet which always is ready for instant action. Of the 114 ships estimated to be worth all told something like 1,450,000,000 that had assembled for today's manoeuvres not a single one had been especially commissioned for the occasion.

MASSACHUSETTS MILLS

Great Additions to be Made to the Plant

Plans for big additions to the Massachusetts mills are in order and applications for permits to build have been made. In view of the fact that other mills are contemplating substantial additions it does not seem as if there was much to fear from southern competition and it speaks well for the status of the textile industry in this section.

It was announced in these columns some time ago that the Massachusetts corporation was contemplating the erection of new buildings, but nothing definite as to purpose or dimensions was procurable at that time. It seems, however, that the additions are to be of greater magnitude than at first supposed. The specifications include two new buildings, one fronting on the Merrimack and the other on the Concord rivers, and while a much lower figure is set as "estimated cost" the actual cost will exceed $100,000. Private plans have been submitted by the company and W. H. Ward & Co. have been granted the contract for the foundation of both buildings. Other contracts have not been let, but foundation is the big contract.

One of the new buildings will front the Merrimack river and the other the Concord river, both being built about 15 feet deep and 10 feet high, sloping up to about 2 feet at top. Then there are three concrete piers 14 feet deep and the putting in of the foundation and the piers will be a very expensive job. Both of these buildings will be erected on the reclaimed land, so-called. The building fronting on the Merrimack river will stretch along the Concord river for a distance of 340 feet, 11 will be in the form of a triangle with a base of about 92 feet. The plan calls for a concrete wall about 15 feet high and a steel frame sloping up to

6 O'CLOCK SENATOR OVERMAN Calls Payne-Aldrich Bill a Most Iniquitous Measure

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Consider that there was a combination in the action of the free list of the tariff bill, starch industry.

"Whether there is a starch trust or not, I do not know," said Mr. Nelson, characterizing the Payne-Aldrich bill which he proceeded to tell of a section of bills ever passed by congress, if it is the potatoes and not productive of passes. Mr. Overman favored Senator much else.

Replies, Mr. Aldrich said if the committee on finance had brought in a proposition to tax an article not raised in this country to protect some manufacturer, although to those manufacturers by a corporation which controls 50 per cent of the American outran and which offers its goods for sale in foreign countries at lower prices than in the United States.

The paragraph relating to crude potash carbonate, carbonate and caustic potash was agreed to by Senator Clark (Wyo.) reserving permission to offer a further amendment to the paragraph if he should desire to do so.

Upon motion of Mr. Aldrich radium was placed upon the free list.

Reversing the usual order of debate Senator Nelson led off on the part of some of the progressives for duty on sago flour which is now on the free list when used for food so that when used in competition with starch it would pay a duty of one cent a pound or of 20 per cent ad valorem. The compromise was adopted by the finance committee.

An amendment by Mr. Gore admitting free of duty bulbs only from countries that admit American wheat and flour free of duty was rejected.

This attempt to revise the tariff upward is not justified said Mr. Aldrich who added that it had been shown

POLICE BAFFLED No Clue to Murderer of Mrs. Sarah Dibble

TRUMBULL, Ct., June 12.—Search in all directions by state police, Bridgeport officers and county deputy sheriffs today brought no clue to the person who killed Mrs. Sarah Dibble in her home here yesterday. Other than assault no motive for the crime is known.

The woman was in her 85th year and far from strong. The feline way in which the woman was strangled and the body dragged to its hiding-place in the cellar suggests to the officers the theory that the murderer was insane.

According to the police, Fournier went to Pembroke, New Hampshire, with oleomargarine and violated one of the laws of that state and failed to show up at the time of the trial with the result that he was indicted by the grand jury.

He was taken back to New Hampshire this afternoon.

Olive Fournier of 113 Alken street, an alleged fugitive from justice wanted by the police of New Hampshire, was arrested at the corner of Merrimack and Cabot streets today by Deputy United States Inspector W. A. Banister, Lieut. James Brosnan, Inspector Charles Lafamme and Patrolman William Lyons.

REP. CLARK
TALKS ABOUT THE ADJOURN- TO BE PLACED ON BIG BATTLE
MENT OF CONGRESS SHIPS

PRINCETON TEAM

BEDDING ON FIRE

Caused the Alarm From
Box 32

The alarm from box 32 at about 1 o'clock this afternoon was for a fire in one of the Gage blocks in Bridge street, beyond Sixth street. At about 8 o'clock this morning a lamp exploded there and set fire to some bedding. The fire was put out, or was supposed to have been put out, but later developments proved that it "lingered longer Lucy," and while the folks were at dinner it broke out again. This time it had gained such great headway that it was necessary to call the department. Considerable damage was done.

SPAIN'S ACTION
IN ENDEAVORING TO SECURE
MONEY FROM CUBA

HAVANA, June 12.—It was learned here today from an excellent authority that the action of Spain in endeavoring to secure the payment by Cuba of her proportion of the Spanish National debt results from the following conditions:

During the negotiations for the treaty of Paris the Spanish commissioners endeavored to get the United States to assume this obligation. This was refused and Spain in renouncing her sovereignty over Cuba did not specifically abandon her monetary claim which was represented by bonds largely in the hands of French holders. The vitality of this claim expired ten years after the signing of the treaty. Hence Spain for the sake of the French bondholders in 1908 instructed General de Ayala, her minister here, to renew the negotiations for the payment of the debt. Spain had no serious expectations that this indebtedness would be canceled but her purpose was to impress the bondholders with her firm intention not to abandon the claim and to renew its vitality for an additional ten years. The intimation that General de Ayala's recall was due to his failure energetically to press this claim are today being reiterated.

PRES. TAFT

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Paired with Walter Travis, President Taft is to play in a foursome golf match against Vice President Sherman and Col. Allan Laird of the Chevy Chase golf club late this afternoon. Mr. Laird is rated as one of the best players in the country. This will be the president's second game as partner of Travis.

Was Fought by the Companies of

A terrific battle in which many were "killed" and "wounded" took place this afternoon in Wilmington, near the Tewksbury line when Companies A, C and G of the Sixth regiment clashed with Company H of the same regiment. Those who were "killed" were very this city, under command of Capt. Gardner W. Pearson of Company C, acted as the defenders of a hill in Wilmington, while Company H of Stoneham, under the command of Capt. Stewart, formed the attacking army.

The army on the hill was known as the Blue army, while the attacking forces were known as the Brown army.

The Blue army encamped on the crest of the hill threw out their outposts in a circle and had been encamped but a short time when the outposts reported that the advance guard of the Brown army had been sighted.

The Blue army broke camp and went to meet the enemy and at the conclusion of the battle the Blue army went back to its position on the hill, but had been there only a short time when the Brown army surprised them and another battle ensued.

The manoeuvres gave the men good outdoor training consisting of guard and outpost duty, work which they will be called upon to perform at the manoeuvres to be held this summer.

VERDICT OF $100 TIMBER BURNING

In Case Against City in Superior Court

The jury in the case of Trites vs. City of Lowell returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $100.

In the case of Mann vs. Moore Spinning company in which the defendant submitted an amended answer to the effect that the plaintiff had released the defendant from all liability and accompanied with a release signed by Mann acknowledging satisfaction on the payment of $30, the court ruled that the question whether or not the plaintiff had released the defendant from liability, should first be passed upon by the jury and evidence on this issue alone was admitted. It was not completed when the session was adjourned.

Mr. Dunbar first called the plaintiff and showed him a paper which he admitted he signed. It was a receipt to the Moore Spinning company, for the sum of nine dollars, "in full satisfaction and discharge of all claims accrued or to accrue in respect to injuries," etc.

In reply to questions by his counsel, Mr. Bent, the plaintiff stated that he signed the paper at St. John's hospital on the 19th day of August, 1907. He received the injury on the 20th day of June, that year. His eye was cut so that the doctor had to take three stitches in it. He remained at the hospital five months and the eye was removed in September. He said that on the 15th of August Mr. Thompson, the physician of the defendant company came to the hospital to see him, but did not pay him any money. He was in great pain all of the time, so that he could not read the paper when it was submitted to him, and it was not read to him. He understood that it was a release from the hospital. He understood that the nine dollars was paid to the head sister, and thought it was for his treatment. He relied on Mr. Thompson's statement that it was a release from the hospital.

Mr. John Thompson, cashier of the defendant company was called and he testified that he visited Mann at the hospital on August 14. He told him the hospital had sent the company a bill for $2. He showed the release to the plaintiff who looked at it and then asked about getting his work back again.

The witness said that he went out to a nearby drugstore to get a pen and ink for Mr. Mann to use in signing the receipt, and that when he returned Mann was looking the paper over and apparently reading it.

The witness saw the plaintiff again on the 10th of August, in the same place, he had made a mistake in asking him to sign a receipt to the Employers Liability insurance company instead of to the Moore Spinning company, and he asked him if he had any objection to signing another paper to correct the mistake. This the plaintiff did. The witness said he had instructions from the Boston office, to relieve Mr. Mann from the bill of nine dollars rendered to the company, on his signing the release.

Both the receipts testified to by Mr. Thompson were shown in evidence.

Both witnesses testified that no third party was present when Mr. Mann signed the receipt.

SOME FLEECING SUITS

The man of wealth must nowadays have a care as to the character of the women whom he allows to make his acquaintance outside his own city or town if he does not want to have a blackmail suit on his hands with breach of promise or something else as the pretext.

The female adventuresses who trump up suits of one kind or another for the purpose of fleecing wealthy men are made more numerous by the ease with which they get through the divorce court. In the majority of cases the wealthy man settles, even though he is not guilty, just to avoid the notoriety of defending himself against such a suit.

THE LATE COL. MCCLURE AND HIS WORK.

The death of Col. Alexander Kelley McClure in his 82nd year removes one of the old-time journalists who devoted his talents largely to a defense of popular rights against political rings, grafters and demagogues. He had been for many years a prominent figure in the political and journalistic life of Pennsylvania, and few men of his day performed better service for the state and the city in which he lived.

Col. McClure was a man of many attainments. As a writer he was bold, clear, incisive and prolific. His vision was true and his instincts humane and honorable. He was the foe of political bosses and of the corruption that usually follows in their wake. This was clearly shown while he was at the head of the Philadelphia Times, a paper which became remarkable throughout the United States for its advocacy of clean government and its devotion to the rights of the people in general.

Col. McClure's example is worthy of imitation by the younger journalists of today. If journalism has a mission it is to serve the people, to stand for the public good, to expose shams and humbugs, to prevent political corruption whether by opposing the election of bad men to office or by turning the searchlight of publicity upon the officials who conspire to rob the city, the state or the nation. It was a grievous loss to Philadelphia and indeed to the entire state of Pennsylvania when business reverses and advancing years combined to remove Col. McClure from the field of journalism in which he was such an able and conspicuous leader.

DR. WASHINGTON AND THE NEGRO PROBLEM.

The lecture by Booker T. Washington before the High school alumni Wednesday evening was highly interesting and instructive. It brought to the attention of the audience the various problems confronting the negroes in the south; and the fact that Dr. Washington is himself one of the chief factors in promoting the education, the industry and the progress of the negro race in the south. The institution over which he presides is one of the most important, but there are scores of others working along the same lines, that is, in teaching the people the art of self-help.

The mere ability to read and write would not uplift the negroes to any great extent, although of course these are among the foremost essentials, because after the negro learns to read and write he is prepared to advance along other lines of knowledge and activity most essential for his industrial development.

The purpose of the education is to develop self-help and self-reliance as well as to impart knowledge. There is no doubt whatever that the negro race in the south is making progress wherever these self-help institutions are doing their work among the people. It was well demonstrated by Dr. Washington that a spread of the practical education given under his direction at the Tuskegee institute would prevent the commission of crime and the consequent lynchings. It would teach the negroes self-reliance, self-respect, independence and obedience to law.

He demonstrated also that the negro race is not as some people suppose incapable of high education and development. The work of the educational institutions in the south have demonstrated that. Give them but fair opportunities and they will advance rapidly in spite of the fact that they have been oppressed, neglected, abused and calumniated.

It is true as he said that when anything of a criminal nature occurs in the south it is heralded all over the country; but when the negroes build houses, establish banks, start new industries or make progress in other lines, the rest of the country hears nothing about it; and so it is that while we hear little that is good from the south, yet the people in various states are making steady progress. In some places it is slow, of course, on account of lack of opportunity; but in others it is as rapid as could be expected. The states do not expend much money for education in the south and education of the young is not compulsory as it is here. Nevertheless, the percentage of illiterates is being reduced and the negro is showing an aptitude for adapting himself to a higher state of civilization than that to which he has been accustomed. All these things are very encouraging and go to show that only a wise policy by the government is needed to solve the negro problem. Industrial education of the self-help character prescribed by Dr. Washington is one of the most essential. The negro will also require of course to be brought under religious influences that will impress upon him his responsibility to himself, to his neighbor and God so that he may become imbued with Christian principles that will make him a peaceful and law-abiding citizen. Three things are necessary, therefore, for the complete uplift of the negro race. These are the school, the church and institutions for self-help and industrial training. After these have done their work the enforcement of law will become an easy matter. It is the fault of the government that lynchings are allowed to occur at frequent intervals without bringing the guilty parties to justice. If the legal authorities convicted some of the lynchers and sent them to the gallows there would soon be an end to lynching in the south. That is one of the blots upon the south that should be removed without further delay. In no other civilized land could a lynching take place without any attempt to punish the offenders and not until the south has stamped out this evil will the negro race feel that they are treated on an equality with the white people.

One of Lowell's best horsemen is authority for the statement that the best way to get rid of a horse that is afflicted with periodical fits of dizziness is to take him some time when he is not dizzy and sell him to a stranger.

FLETCHERIZE

Once a man with poor digestion ate some cork and carpet tacks, ate two lobsters without question, ate some tripe and sealing wax; ate of pickles by the quart, sir; ate of crabs an even score. And when all supplies ran short, sir, still was clamorous for more. Did it hurt him? No, it cured him; Mr. Fletcher had assured him.

Of the virtue in a chew, Chew the oysters, chew the chowder, Chew the fish and chew the meat, Chew the smallest crumb to powder, Chew up everything you eat; Chew boiled rice and chew the curry, Chew the pudding, chew the sauce, Chew them slowly, never hurry; Chew for time is only dross, chewing good for what may all you; Curves and wrinkles, tares the gown; Chew and health will never fall out.

CLEAR THE COMPLEXION OVERNIGHT

Pimples, Rash, Eruptions, Etc., Quickly Eradicated by New Skin Remedy.

Since its discovery one year ago, postum, the new skin remedy, has, in its extraordinary accomplishments, exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the eminent specialist who gave it to the world. It has cured thousands of cases of eczema and eradicated facial and other disfigurements of years standing. The terrible itching attending eczema is stopped with the first application, giving proof of its curative properties at the very outset.

In less serious skin affections, such as pimples, rash, herpes, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, etc., results show after an overnight application, only a small quantity being required to effect a cure. Those who use postum for those minor skin troubles can now avail themselves of the special 50-cent package, recently adopted to meet such needs. Of the 50-cent package and the regular $2.50 jar may now be obtained in Falls & Buckingham's, Carter & Sherburne's and other leading drug stores in Lowell.

Sampling for experimental purposes may be had free of charge by writing direct to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York City.

BROKER IS HELD

Charged With Larceny of $11,500

FALL RIVER, June 12.—James M. Cotton, a former stock broker in this city, was arraigned yesterday afternoon at his home in Somerton on a bench warrant from the superior court. He was indicted this week by the grand jury in New Bedford on 12 counts for alleged larceny of $11,500 from Dr.

Mr. Cotton was in business here for many years. Last June he suspended and afterward made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors. It has never been disclosed how many creditors there were or how much the total liabilities amounted to.

Some time ago Dr. Coughlin and Mrs. T. Touhey brought civil suits against Mr. Cotton to recover money owed them, and cited in the assignee, John T. Robertson as trustee. Mr. Robertson held as assignee the funds belonging to Mr. Cotton, and the amount was small in comparison to what

SUES SECRETARY IN THE PULPITS

Lynn Woman Begins Action for $10,000

BOSTON, June 12.—Before Judge Fessenden in the first session of the superior court yesterday was commenced a $10,000 alienation suit in which two stylish women from Lynn figure, one as plaintiff and the other as defendant. The plaintiff, Sarah J. Laxon, wife of Dr. J. W. R. Laxon of Lynn and Boston, alleges that Mrs. Lila O. Hay, for several years private secretary to Dr. Laxon, induced the doctor to leave his home and children. Mrs. Anna H. Hurran, the first witness, testified that she had been engaged by Dr. Laxon to take care of his seven room suite in the exchange block in Lynn. The witness said that she never remained in the suite overnight, but that Mrs. Hay occupied it during adjournment of Dr. Laxon. In concluding her direct testimony the witness said: "Dr. Laxon's children called frequently at the house but never remained over night. Mrs. Hay's daughter lived in the suite with the exception of about two weeks at one time when he was away on a vacation."

GRISCOM TROPHY

CAPTURED BY NEW YORK WOMEN GOLFERS

New York women golfers yesterday afternoon captured the griscom trophy by defeating the Boston team 9 to 6.

The Boston players proved unexpectedly weak. The Boston team was Misses Fannie Osgood and the Misses Harriet and Margaret Curtis, all former holders of important titles. As a result, lack of team work and expense was evident.

Miss Katherine Harley of Fall River, the national champion, had quite her own way in defeating Miss Julia Mix, Metropolitan title holder, 4 up and 2 to 1. Miss Mix, after being almost helpless on the first seven holes, quickly rallied and took the ninth, tenth and eleventh in 3, 3, 4, figures of which any man played might be proud. Then, quite as quickly, she relapsed. Miss Harley, however, variable, bettering par on the third, fifth and tenth holes, only to go wild on the fourth, seventh and eleventh.

Miss Georgia Bishop of New York, former national and Metropolitan title holder, beat Miss Molly B. Adams, 4 down and 2 to go.

Mrs. Charles T. Stout of New York, former national and Metropolitan champion, beat Mrs. G. W. Roots, 2 up and 1 to go.

THE NEW FANS

These Dainty Accessories
Are Especially Beautiful
This Season

FOR at least two centuries the fan has been one of the most delightful accessories of the feminine toilet. And this summer the new wind wavers are exquisitely beautiful, especially those designed to be used with period costumes, which are a fad of the season. Many lovely but inexpensive fans are to be found at a Broadway shop that deals in wares from the land of the mikado. In this display is a dainty little specimen of carved sandalwood with a painted or stamped design in soft old rose and dull green tones all over its surface. The fan is moderately priced at $1.50, and it would be reasonable at twice the amount, as a sandalwood fan is not only artistic to the eye and pleasant to the olfactory organ, but has the added advantage of combining well with most costumes. A fan of black liberty silk, spangled with steel whose sticks are inlaid with the same metal, is in the same collection and is certainly alluring enough to appeal to a Spanish donna, for who can wield the fan so successfully as the Spanish girl? And in the land of Spain the fan speaks a particular language, and gallantry requires no other mode to express its most subtle conceits than through this delicate machine.

In the hands of the powdered duchesses and marquises of Louis XIV.'s reign the fan was a weapon and a symbol. It had, like diplomats, a language of its own, which was learned by every woman before she entered society. With it could be expressed a wish, a promise, a refusal or a pardon. In Persia, Egypt, Greece and Rome fans were in early use. The Egyptians carried a peculiar arrangement made of a bird's wing extended, while in Greece the round peacock feather fan was the favorite. Roman ladies appeared in public wafting thin tablets of sandalwood, and a lurid light is cast on the customs of the middle ages in Italy by the fact that several dainty fans are preserved with a concealed dagger in the handle of each. The fan's first appearance in England was made in the reign of Richard II. The virgin queen, the fair Elizabeth, is said to have owned no less than twenty-seven fans, one handsome specimen costing £20, a large sum in those days. Elizabeth originated the custom that the only gift a queen could receive was a fan, and truly worthy of royalty's acceptance were these offerings, whose sticks were made of mother-of-pearl, rubies and other precious gems. And in our own day a number of society women not only collect costly fans, many of which have historical value, but they are seen using them at smart functions.

The Japanese, I believe, have the honor of inventing the first collapsible or folding fans, about 750 A.D. They have kept right on adding to their clever inventions in this direction. Their latest idea of the collapsible type is a charming affair that looks when closed like a bunch of pink roses, but when a little silk string hidden among the posies is pulled a good sized fan of white silk appears with a border of pink roses. These fans have been favorite graduating presents this year. Another lovely little fan of oriental origin is a round affair of white silk covered with cherry blossoms in natural coloring, done in a silky fabric. On the reverse side is this verse in Japanese characters:

Shikijinno Yamabe
Gakorowa
Hito towabi
Ashine niwou
Yama Sakura kana.

Translated into English it would read something like this: If you should ask the Japanese where is the Japanese heart he would point to the cherry blossoms waving in the morning sun. There is the Japanese heart.

The decoration of fans has always proved fascinating to French artists, and such masters as Fragonard, Boucher, Watteau and Lancret did not consider the painting of lovely figures on the dainty fans as beneath their dignity. In the Louis XIV. period they were beautifully finished by the four Martin brothers with a bright varnish that gave the painting an appearance of enamel which is known even to this day as "Vernis Martin." A number of the handsomest fans of the summer are copies of the work of these old French masters, and when hung from chains of gold or semiprecious stones the effect is quaint and lovely. There is, too, a fancy for suspending these tiny fans of the season from black grosgrain ribbon and carrying them over the wrist.

One could write indefinitely about fans of the past and present, but there is a pretty mythological origin that is pleasant to remember in connection with them which runs as follows: As Psyche was sleeping one day on a bank of flowers Zephyr's wings beat covering over her. After a time jealous Cupid plucked off one of Zephyr's wings and gave it to Psyche that she might ever have cooling breezes.

AMERICAN WOMAN'S LIBERTY.

Too Much of It May Lead to Selfishness, Says Mlle. Ducreux.

Another foreigner is added to the list of those who came, saw, and were impressed with the United States and the opportunities here, especially the opportunities of women. Mlle. She has had a good chance to observe, for her head and eat out of her hands. It is a delight to take long drives and has traveled about a great deal; has secured before many women's colleges. including Barnard, and before various branches of the French alliance, and has given special courses at the Chicago university. She spent some weeks in Washington, where Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand gave a dinner in her honor at the French embassy. Mlle. Ducreux is a learned young woman, holding a diploma from the School of Living Oriental Languages in Paris and several other honors.

Mlle. Ducreux has only one fear about the American woman—she thinks she may become selfish. "Women in this country have so much liberty," she said, "and almost always the privileged being grows selfish. And the selfishness of women is more odious because more against nature than the selfishness of men."

In spite of this danger, she thinks the American woman's liberty rather a fine thing. "Work and responsibility will be the redemption of your women," she said. "The equality of opportunity and the diversified duties—all this seems to me splendid, just as things should be."

"I wish this rule of justice existed between men and women everywhere, and I wish the American woman was

Now that warm weather is approaching, we are making biscuits for him or stirring soup, and—oh, me! oh, my!

when luncheon time comes around, if he didn't have something good to eat, wouldn't he make a row!

And so poor Mrs. Genius was kept hanging over the cook stove or doing the marketing all the time. And who knows if she hadn't been kept tired to death by her gigantic task of "feeding the brute" she might have had some fine ideas of her own.

There is no doubt of it, we eat too much, and when the day comes when we absorb uncooked or condensed food

we will see what a lot more we can

The finest social quality for either a man or a woman is to be a "good mixer."

I think American women show great administrative ability in the management of their homes, and what a servant problem they have to grapple with. Some of your schools and colleges for women, too, have remarkable women at the head of them. I have been struck with the gains taken to develop the personality of pupils. I hope to see the system of self-government adopted in some French schools. Yes, American women have great opportunities."

HONEY FOR CHILDREN.

If your child has a great fondness for sweet things and ordinary candies and cakes, mix with him, you can substitute honey for them.

It is an excellent food for children, is nutritious and when taken with bread may be eaten with impunity.

It is also valuable as an aid to digestion.

Most people find it as delicious as it is healthful when they are fortunate enough to obtain it in its pure state.

QUEEN WILHELMINA'S PUN.

Queen Wilhelmina is extremely simple in her tastes and frowns upon all attempts at stiff formality in her court. Her favorite residence is an old country place near the village of Apeldoorn. There she has a small farm and a private flower garden which she manages largely herself. She has red dogs and porters and pigeons which settle on her shoulders.

She is a good chance to observe, for her head and eat out of her hands. It is a delight to take long drives and has traveled about a great deal; has secured before many women's colleges. Not so long ago she and her husband

CARE OF FURNITURE

Ways In Which It May Be
Treated to Preserve
Its Beauty

WITH its brilliant surface unscratched, free from bruises and stains, its beautiful tones and ever changing lights and shadows, fine furniture is an absolute joy to those on the alert for wood effects. On the other hand, to the eye of the careful observer it may become a constant annoyance, and this from nothing else than pure neglect. Furniture, however well designed and made, however valuable from association, is ruined in appearance by dirt, scratches, stains, ink marks, water marks and the like. Every one knows or ought to know that these are remediable defects. But not every one knows how to cure them. All can learn, however, and I am going to give in this story the results of my own and other people's experience in keeping good furniture in condition and restoring to beauty that which has been neglected.

Supposing the furniture to be sound and clean, as things go, the ordinary maid's idea of cleaning is to "give a good rub up" or to use some kind of polishing paste or liquid. After this treatment the furniture will look bright for awhile unless one should peer into the corners and find the white dust hiding in crevices and portions of moldings or carved work. All rubbing and polishing are labor in the wrong place unless the first process of cleaning has been thoroughly carried out. There are many ways of doing this. Some housekeepers use cold tea, vinegar and water in equal parts. Either application is good, although

RINGLING BROS.

Gave the Truly Greatest Show on Earth

There are many greatest shows on earth, but the truly greatest, as far as merit and size are concerned, is Ringling Bros., which yesterday played on the Fair Grounds, to about 8,000 people in the afternoon and over 15,000 in the evening. The big tent seats 16,000 people and to the ordinary observer it appeared to be packed at last evening's show. But the circus employees estimated the attendance at 15,000, and that is near enough to give one an idea of the immense throng gathered under the big top.

The features on the program have all been written up in advance and hence need no description at this time. But there are several important features about the Ringling Bros. show which contribute materially to its greatness and which were felt by the patrons if not noticed individually. In the first place, promptness is one of the cardinal virtues of this great organization. The street parade was advertised for 10 o'clock and on the minute it started away. When the big show started afternoon and evening, the next act on the program was out at the rings waiting for its predecessors to get out of the way, so that there wasn't a moment's delay. Cleanliness is another feature of the show. Thorough, wild and domestic, stone with cleanliness, the wagons and barnacles were slick and span, the menagerie was a model of cleanliness and the offensive odor common to most menageries was absent. The people connected with the show, both performers and hustlers, were neat of appearance. The women were the best looking ever seen with a circus. The ushers within the big tent were courteous and also of neat appearance.

There were more acts than the ordinary circus carries along and the show ran nearly an hour longer than any others that have been here. It had all the features of other circuses and a number of entirely new acts which are world-beaters in their line. The clowns were numerous and exceedingly funny and a particularly good feature of the clown acts were the "fakes" on the audience furnished by women connected with the circus who distributed themselves among the audience and remained quiet like ordinary spectators until their time came, when they proceeded to make "seepes" that fooled most of the wise ones. To mention the individual acts that pleased would take columns, there were so many good ones, suffice it to say that without any exaggeration this year's Ringling Bros. Circus was by all odds the best ever seen in Lowell. None that has come here thus far has ever approached it in size, originality, and merit in every particular. There is not a stick of deadwood in the whole aggregation and the chestnut jokes, pranks and freaks are supplemented by something new, up-to-date and clean-shaven.

14-YEAR-OLD BOY MADE SUCCESSFUL ASCENSION

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—A large number of spectators were greatly impressed by a successful ascension to a height of twenty-five feet achieved yesterday by fourteen year old Irving Harness in an aeroplane of his own invention and construction. He was cheered as his peculiar looking machine slowly circled about the schoolyard, attaining each second a greater height. When the yard had been twice circumnavigated the youth brought his craft safely to the earth.

Mr. Bennett was from Cambridge, Mass. He disappeared from the steamer Thursday night while his wife was with a number of friends in the dining room.

BERKELEY, Cal., June 12.—A somnambulistic stroll during which he dove head first from a second story window to the ground 25 feet below resulted yesterday in the serious injury of Francis G. Steele, editor of the California Occident, a university publication and a member of the track squad. His injuries consist of a fractured ankle, painful lacerations about the breast and two missing teeth. Upon recovering consciousness Steele said that he dreamed that he was diving into the ocean.

THE CUNARD STEAMSHIP SLAVONIA REPORTED A WRECK OFF THE AZORES

SLAVONIA ASHORE

Steamer May be Total Wreck

LONDON, June 11.—The Cunard line reports that its steamer Slavonia, which left New York June 3 for Naples, is ashore southwest of Flores Island, one of the Azores group, and that it is feared she will be a total wreck.

All of the 110 passengers aboard the steamer were taken off by the steamer Prinzess Irene of the North German Lloyd line and will be taken by this vessel to Gibraltar. The other passengers, mostly grouped on the deck, somewhat uneasy, but a tug was alongside the steamer in short order and within a few moments had her safely in her berth.

GAVE ASSISTANCE

NEW YORK, June 12.—Through a private cable message dated Velas, Azores Islands, news reached New York yesterday afternoon that the Cunard liner Slavonia, bearing 110 cabin passengers and 206 in the steerage, strand yesterday off Flores Island, of the Azores group.

After having steamed successfully more than half way across the Atlantic, the vessel, which left this port for Naples on June 3, is almost a complete wreck; but through the timely aid rendered by the North German-Lloyd and the Hamburg-American liners that were near, every passenger, according to best reports here, was taken off in safety.

The liners which gave aid to the Slavonia in her time of distress are the Prinzess Irene of the North German-Lloyd, and the Hamburg-American liner Batavia. Both have been bound for Naples.

First reports that the Cunarder had run aground reached here shortly before four o'clock in a message to the North German-Lloyd from Captain Peterson of the Prinzess Irene, saying briefly:

"Took on board Prinzess Irene 110 cabin passengers from S. S. Slavonia at southwest of Flores Island. The 300 steerage passengers on Batavia. Slavonia probably total wreck."

When the foregoing was received the Cunard line had no advices whatsoever and heard first of the accident through the North German-Lloyd.

The list of cabin passengers on the Slavonia as given by the Cunard line here contains no addresses but the first class passengers are practically all Americans among them fifteen or twenty in a Cook's tourist party.

Flores Island on which the Slavonia is stranded, is the most westerly of the Azores group with dangerous and precipitous cliffs. The foundering of a vessel there can be easily imagined but by good fortune the two other liners, the Prinzess Irene and the Batavia, which left New York on June 5th, and 3rd, respectively, were close by and the Marconi message of Captain Peterson would seem to indicate there was no loss of life or injury to any one. The transfer of passengers was, however, no doubt, accomplished with the usual trials and dangers attendant to the shifting of nervous human beings at sea.

The Slavonia is a twin screw steamship of 10,800 gross tonnage, is 510 feet long, with a 50 foot beam, and is 22 feet deep. Her commander is Captain A. G. Dunning. The vessel is comparatively new, having been built at Sunderland, England, in 1903.

Yesterday's sea drama served to illustrate the professional friendship between the North German-Lloyd and the Cunard and readily to mind an instance of a dozen or fifteen years ago when the Prinzess Irene of the North German-Lloyd stood by the Cunard liner Oregon and saved all the passengers and crew.

THE PASSENGERS WILL BE TAKEN TO EUROPEAN PORT

NEW YORK, June 12.—The first cablegram from Captain Dunning of the wrecked steamer Slavonia was received today by the agents of the Cunard line in this city. It was forwarded by the agent of the line in Liverpool and read as follows:

"Slavonia ashore south side of Flores Island. Passengers safely landed, proceeding sat on steamship Prinzess Irene, third class on steamship Batavia."

From the wording of this message the Cunard agents were of the opinion that the passengers were first landed on Flores Island and then taken on board the steamers.

Although further details of the wreck and the rescue of the Slavonia's 310 passengers were awaited with great interest in the offices of the Hamburg-American line which owns the Batavia and the North German Lloyd line which owns the Prinzess Irene, no additional information was received and the agents were inclined to the belief that they would have no further reports from either the Prinzess Irene or the Batavia until those two ships reached a continental port. The Prinzess Irene is expected to reach Gibraltar Sunday.

ASK NEW TRIAL

For Jordan, Convicted of Murder

BOSTON, June 12.—A new trial for Chester S. Jordan, who was found guilty of the murder of his wife in the Middlesex superior court in May, was asked for yesterday by Attorneys Bartlett, Pratt and Sullivan, his counsel.

Four papers in the case were filed with the clerk of the Middlesex county court at East Cambridge.

The first is the formal motion for a new trial, and a motion to set aside the verdict on the ground that one of the jurors, Willis A. White, was insane at the time of the trial. This is signed by all three attorneys.

The second is an affidavit of Dr. George E. Titcomb, who saw White on May 8 last and who says White was then suffering from acute mania, was violent, talkative and spoke disconnectedly.

The third is the affidavit of Dr. Frank U. Rich of Maynard, who knew White 20 years and had been the family physician up to within a year and who gives the opinion that White was insane.

The fourth paper is a copy of the commitment by Judge John S. Keys of the Concord district court, dated Saturday, May 8, under which White was sent to Worcester.

THE CARNEGIE

NEW MAGNETIC SURVEY YACHT LAUNCHED

NEW YORK, June 12.—A new departure in shipbuilding was taken to-day with the launching of the new magnetic survey yacht Carnegie at Tebo's yard in Brooklyn. The vessel was built for the Carnegie Institution of Washington and is intended for the use of the department of research in terrestrial magnetism in the institution and is expected to prove of great value in survey work, especially in observations to determine the variations constantly taking place in the magnetic needle.

The absence of magnetic metal on the vessel's hull is expected to make the work accurate.

A producer gas plant, said to be the first installed on board a vessel, is another of the new features of the Carnegie's equipment. This engine will have an energy of 125 horsepower on a consumption of 12 pounds of anthracite coal an hour. Her bunkered capacity of 25 tons will thus give her a cruising area of 2000 miles at a speed of six miles an hour. But most of the time the Carnegie will rely on sail for motive power. She is brigantined.

IN FREEHOLD, N.J. DROP TO DEATH

Former Carpet Strikers' Mother Saw Her Child's Fatal Drop

Daniel S. O'Brien, the well-known clothier, is just back from a business trip to Freehold, N. J., where he was most agreeably surprised to find a large Lowell colony there employed, mostly former employers of the Bigelow Carpet company, who either went away during the strike or didn't get back after the strike was declared off. There is John Burns, who was formerly an overseer of the weavers room in the Bigelow Carpet company, and who is now overseer in a big rug mill in that city and for whom most of the Lowell boys are working. Then there is Joe Cox, former president of the Weavers union of this city; popular Phil McGuire, of auto race souvenir fame; Michael Burns, brother of John, who has moved his family there; Thos Quinn, formerly connected with the Bigelow Carpet company, and about 40 others. Most of the Lowell bunch live together and all are doing better than when they were in Lowell.

MAN DROWNED.

WHILE TRYING TO SHOW HE COULD SWIM

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 12.—While attempting to demonstrate to his employer that he could swim, Alfred Frenier, 22 years of age, was drowned in Blackmire pond, Auburn, this afternoon. The young man had jumped from an ice house platform with Albert Elmer, a baker, by whom he was employed. Elmer swam about waiting for him to appear. An hour later the body was recovered by dragging.

SUM OF $10,000

AWAITS BABY GIRL KNOWN AS MAUD WILLIAMS

NEW YORK, June 12.—If a baby girl now 9 years old and known as Maud Williams can be found a legacy of $10,000 is waiting for her.

On the night of May 2, 1898, a girl baby was found in the highway of a house at 39 East Ninety-third street. She was taken to the East Eighty-eighth street precinct and then turned over to Bellevue Hospital. As no one called for the baby it was christened Maud Williams and sent to the Randall's Island Infant Asylum. What has since become of the child and where she went from there could not be learned last night, as the records were locked up.

Robert J. Gillane, a lawyer, of 71 Wall street, who lives at 149 East Eighty-second street, is seeking the child, whose right name is Margaret Gough.

It was gathered from what Mr. Gillane would tell last night that the child is a granddaughter of Bridget Gough, who died in this city about ten days ago and who left the $10,000 legacy to the child. Martin Gough, a son of Bridget, married against the wishes of his friends. Dissension arose in both the Gough family and that of the bride and when a baby was born to the couple it is supposed that it was abandoned. Both mother and father are now dead.

ENGINEERS RESUME

6 O'CLOCK SENATOR OVERMAN

Calls Payne-Aldrich Bill a Most Iniquitous Measure

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Consideration of the free list of the tariff bill was resumed in the senate today after a speech by Senator Overman, who characterized the Payne-Aldrich bill as one of the most iniquitous tariff bills ever passed by congress. If it is passed Mr. Overman favored Senator Aldrich's income tax amendment, and desired he would offer an amendment for a fixed tax on immigrants and other non-resident aliens, and a proposal to increase the collection of duties on articles similar to those manufactured by a company which controls 36 per cent of the American copper and which offers its goods for sale in foreign countries at lower prices than in the United States.

The paragraph relating to starch, carbamate carbonate and calcite potato was agreed to by Senator Clark (Wyo.) reserving permission to offer a further amendment to the paragraph if he should desire to do so. Upon motion of Mr. Aldrich nothing was placed upon the free list.

Reversing the usual order of des, was used for food, by offering an amendment placing tapioca and sago, part of some of the progressives for free on the free list when used for duty on same from which is now on the food so that when used in competition free list. Their proposal was to prohibit starch it would pay a duty to the potato industry in the states of one cent a pound or of 20 per cent and he declared that sugar does come at valuation. The compromise was in competition with starch made from corn.

An amendment by Mr. Gore against the potato and from corn. This attempt to revise the tariff up to date of duty bills only from countries' ward is not justified said Mr. Aldrich that admit American wheat and done who added that it had been shown free of duty was rejected.

BEDDING ON FIRE

Caused the Alarm From Box 32

The alarm from box 32 at about 1 o'clock this afternoon was for a fire in one of the Gage blocks in Bridgeport street, beyond Sixth street. At about 8 o'clock this morning a lamp exploded there and set fire to some bedding. The fire was put out or was supposed to have been put out, but later developments proved that it "limped longer Lucy," and while the folks were at dinner it broke out again. This time it had gained such good headway that it was necessary to call the department. Considerable damage was done.

SPAIN'S ACTION IN ENDEAVORING TO SECURE MONEY FROM CUBA

HAVANA, June 12.—It was learned here today from an exiled authority that the action of Spain in endeavoring to secure the payment by Cuba of her portion of the Spanish National debt results from the following conditions:

"During the negotiations for the treaty of Paris the Spanish commissioners endeavored to get the United States to assume this obligation. This was refused and Spain in returning her sovereignty over Cuba did not specifically abandon her monetary claim which was represented by bonds largely in the hands of French holders. The validity of this claim existed ten years after the signing of the treaty. Hence Spain for the sake of the French bondholders in 1903 instructed that Dr. Alcalde, her minister here, to review the negotiations for the payment of the debt. Spain had no objection in so far as this indebtedness would be concerned but her purpose was to impress the bondholders with her true intention not to abandon the claim and to renew its validity for an additional ten years. The information that some of Ayala's recall was due to his failure to do this is denied by his son, who is trying to prove his claim by legal action."

He will now shortly return to New York to consider what may be done to secure the payment of the debt in process now. Dr. Alcalde, Mr. Alcalde, was Mr. Dowling's first assistant in the work of constructing the first State Council here.

John Keady, the well known editor of the Harvard Daily, the undergraduate newspaper of Harvard University, is engaged in building an apartment engagement at the new building park in Greenwich, the place where he is in charge of the orchestra of the Harvard Club.

WILL GET FRANCHISE

League Directors Favor James J. Gray

But Court's Decision on Franchise Must be Awaited Before Changing—Winn Sold Howard and Venable to Red Sox

The directors of the New England league held a special meeting at Clark's hotel last evening to consider the affairs of the Lowell club, as a result of which it looks as if James J. and Andrew Gray of this city would get the Lowell franchise as soon as the court rules on the O'Brien injunction case, which at present has the franchise under attachment and hence not saleable.

Two important facts came out at the meeting not heretofore generally known. The first is that Winn has sold Howard to the Boston Americans for $250, which he has collected, and the other is that only yesterday he bled out to the Boston American grounds and sold Venable to the Red Sox for $1000, collecting $300, then and there, the remainder to be paid July 15. But the league took a hand in the matter and fixed it so that both players will play the season out with Lowell, while the new owner of the franchise will probably have something to say about the remaining $700 on Venable.

These tables show the principal articles exported and in detail the various countries to which they are sent.

In the case of mowers and reapers, for example, it is interesting to note that no less than 75 countries and colonies are named as the destinations of this class of our manufactures exported. Russia in Europe is the largest purchaser of mowers and reapers, the value thereof exported direct to that country in 1908 being over 3 million dollars, to France 2½ million, to Germany 1½ million, to Argentina over 1 million, to the United Kingdom ¾ million, and to Australia and New Zealand approximately ¼ million. American billiard balls, which one would scarcely expect to see as an article of export, went to Panama—4 thousand dollars' worth in 1908, to France over 3 thousand dollars' worth, to the United Kingdom about 16 hundred dollars' worth to Mexico nearly 2 thousand dollars' worth, to Cuba nearly a like value, to Colombia a similar value; while other countries named in the list of those to which this article of American manufacture was sent are Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Salvador, Danish West Indies, Dutch West Indies, Hayti, Santo Domingo, Straits Settlements, British India, Korea, Asiatic Russia, Spain, French Oceania, German Oceania, and the Philippine Islands in Oceania, and the Pacific Ocean.

American billiard powder goes to two score countries, many of them far distant, including in 1908, United Kingdom, Norway, Italy, Germany, France, the Azores, British West Indies, Danish West Indies, Dutch West Indies, Hayti, Santo Domingo, Straits Settlements, British India, Korea, Asiatic Russia, Spain, French Oceania, German Oceania, and the Philippine Islands in Oceania, and the Pacific Ocean.

American candle cloths were sent to no less than 70 different countries and colonies of the world—unbeaten cloths to the extent of about 7 million dollars' worth; bleached, 1½ millions; dyed, colored, and printed, nearly 6 millions and wearing apparel about 5 million dollars' worth. Among the countries to which these cloth goods were sent in greater or less quantities were practically all of the countries of Europe, North and South America, the Azores, Malta, Greece, Hayti, Santo Domingo, the German possessions in Asia, Siam, Canary Islands, Liberia, French Oceania, Asiatic Russia, and the British empire of Aden.

Five million dollars' worth of American linens twice went to 70 countries, including 1½ million dollars' worth to Canada, 1½ million dollars' worth to Mexico, 1½ million dollars' worth to Argentina, 1½ million dollars' worth to United Kingdom, 1½ million dollars' worth to United States, 1½ million dollars' worth to Australia, 1½ million dollars' worth to New Zealand, and the Straits Settlements.

The society today numbers over 1200 members and is probably the largest Holy Name society in the archdiocese. It has grown rapidly in size and importance through the untiring efforts of Rev. John F. Burns, the popular spiritual director. The services will open in the church at 8 o'clock but the members of the society will assemble at St. Paul's church at 7:30 o'clock and proceed in a body to the church where Mass will be reserved for them. Rev. Fr. Burns will appear on the local diamond in uniform on June 19. Other measures of the bill become effective next February.

FOUR MEN KILLED By the Collapse of a Floor in Detroit

DETROIT, June 12.—A floor at the plant of the Peninsula Stove Works on West Fort street caved in today and it is reported that four men are buried under the fallen floor. With no warning the top door sagged and then gave way with a crash. Each of the lower floors sank in turn.

The storehouse was a six-story building and five of the floors collapsed from the weight of the stoves, which filled them. The fire was soon brought under control, and would not permit newspapermen to make any estimate of the number killed and would not permit newspapermen to the plant.

SUGAR TRUST BUILDING NEWS

To be Prosecuted by Atty. General

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The practical confession of the sugar trust that it was guilty civilly under the Sherman law in its compromised suit with the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company has caused the department of justice to begin a careful study of the evidence with a view to possible commencement of criminal proceedings. President Taft is much interested in the case and has directed Attorney General Wickesham to go to the bottom of it. George H. Earle, Jr., receiver of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company, recently stated that he would not lay his evidence before the department of justice, aluding that he made strenuous efforts some time ago, without success, to interest former Attorney General Bonaparte in the matter.

IMPERIAL PRESS CONFERENCE

FORTNIGHTLY, June 12.—The delegates to the imperial press conference who are spending the day here as the guests of the admiralty have witnessed a naval spectacle that represents a concentration of seapower unparalleled in the history of the world.

Stretched out in seven lines in the far famed roadstead and extending from Cowes road to the seafort guarding the entrance to Spithead the visitors saw the warship of the British navy, that is to say that section of the fleet which is always ready for instant action. Of the 110 ships estimated to be worth all told something like $450,000,000 that had assembled for the day's manoeuvres not a single one had been especially commissioned for the occasion.

LOWELL'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

TWO VIEWS OF SAM LANGFORD, WHO RECENTLY WON ENGLISH CHAMPIONSHIP

NEW YORK, June 12.—Negro gladiators have figured prominently in theistic competition for nearly 60 years, but never before have they held such a copper riveted strangle hold on everything in sight worth having as they hold at this moment. Not only is Jack Johnson, champion of America and of the world, but Poe Jeannette, another American negro, is champion of France, and a third one, Sam Langford, is champion of England, Ireland and Wales. Langford recently defeated Ian Hague, the English heavyweight, for the title in four rounds. Samuel is now hot on the trail of Johnson. The pair met once, and the latter received the decision, but Langford points to the fact that when he and Johnson met some years ago he (Langford) weighed about 140 pounds to 200 for Johnson and that the latter got so spirited a thumping from the smaller man that he has no further desire for a meeting. Langford declares that he has now grown much heavier and would enter the ring at about 170 pounds. At this weight he is confident he would be able to make it still more interesting for the champion.

Langford as they appeared in the ring shows Bob Fitzsimmons giving before the numbers of the National dusky pugilist some ring pointers.

VERDICT OF $100 TIMBER BURNING

In Case Against City in Superior Court

The jury in the case of Triles vs. City of Lowell returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $100.

In the case of Mann vs. Moore Spinning company in which the defendant submitted an amended answer to the effect that the plaintiff had released the defendant from all liability, and accompanied with release signed by Mann acknowledging satisfaction on the payment of $3, the court ruled that the question whether or not the plaintiff had released the defendant from liability should first be passed upon by the jury and evidence on this issue alone was admitted. It was not admitted when the question was addressed.

Mr. Dunnigan first called the plaintiff and showed him a paper which he admitted he signed. It was a receipt to the Moore Spinning company for the sum of nine dollars, "in full satisfaction and discharge of all claims accrued or to accrue in respect to injuries," etc.

In reply to questions by his counsel, Mr. Bent, the plaintiff stated that he signed the paper on the 19th day of August, 1907. He received the money on the 20th day of June, that year. His eye was cut so that the doctor had to take three stitches in it. He remained at the hospital five months and the eye was removed in September. He said that on the 19th of August Mr. Thompson, the paymaster of the defendant company, came to the hospital to see him, but did not pay him any money. He was in great pain all of the time, so that he could not read the paper when it was submitted to him, and it was not read to him. He understood that it was a release from the hospital. He understood that the nine dollars was paid to the head sister, and thought it was for his treatment. He relied on Mr. Thompson's statement that it was a release from the hospital.

Mr. John Thompson, cashier of the defendant company was called and he testified that he visited Mann at the hospital on August 14. He told him the hospital had sent the company a bill for $3. He showed the release to the plaintiff who looked at it and then asked about getting his work back again.

The witness said that he went out to a near-by drugstore to get a pen and ink for Mr. Mann to use in signing the receipt, and that when he returned Mann was looking the paper over, and apparently reading it.

The witness saw the plaintiff again, on the 1st of August, in the same place, he had made a mistake in asking him to sign a receipt to the Employers' Liability insurance company instead of to the Moore Spinning company, and he asked him if he had any objection to signing another paper, to correct the mistake. This the plaintiff did. The witness said he had instructions from the Boston office, to relieve Mr. Mann from the bill of nine dollars rendered to the company, or his signature on the release.

Both the receipts testified to by Mr. Thompson were shown in evidence.

Both witnesses testified that no third party was present when Mr. Mann signed the receipt.

GREAT LEGACY

Left by M. Chauchard of Paris

PARIS, June 12.—The legacies of M. Chauchard, the wealthy proprietor of the Magasins du Louvre, who died last week, continue to attract attention. It has been learned that in his original will in 1906 he left $1,000,000. to the employees of his store and important legacies to societies. George Leygues was given $1,000,000. A codicil drawn up in 1907 and dated two days after M. Chauchard received the grand cross of the Legion of Honor, reduced the heritage to his employees to $600,000. Left out the societies entirely and increased Mr. Leygues' inheritance to $3,000,000. On account of the opposition manifested, M. ## COMIC OPERA

"THE YANKEE MANDARIN" GETS FIRST INTRODUCTION

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 12.—The "Yankee Mandarin," a comic opera was presented for the first time on any stage at the Providence opera house last evening by the Constance Amusement company. The performance was well received, a large audience showing their appreciation by frequent applause.

The production is staged by Joseph Herbert, the music is by Reginald De Koven and the book by Edward Paulson. The scenes of the piece are both laid in China, the first act at the port of Foo Choo and the second in the gorgious palace of the Mandarin, overlooking the Hoang Ho river.

The plot and comedy work center about Wot Ho, the Mandarin, who is deposed and whose station is taken by an American seaman, Hiram Swart. Two pretty love tangles are intertwined.

READING MATTER FOR CAMPERS

CALAIS, Me., June 12.—The situation herabouts as regards forest fires was more reassuring today. Those fires near the principal part of this city were either burned out or under control, but a big fire was still raging in the vicinity of Read Beach although the absence of the high wind which has prevailed for days relieved the situation somewhat.

DANGER PASSED

PRESQUE ISLE, Me., June 12.—Very light showers and no wind today were responsible for a feeling that the danger line on the forest fires near here had been passed. The spectacular fire on Quacco Jo mountain, which threatened 100 acres of woodland owned by J. G. Whidden and the buildings of Allis-Reed had somewhat subsided.

In order to insure the safety of storehouses on the line of the Bangor & Aroostook railroad through here the company's train schedule has been changed so as to send all freight trains through in the night time and thus avoid the danger of starting fires from engine sparks.

The price of potatoes has taken a leap as one result of the burning of the potato storerooms in the conflagration here Monday night. It was $3 a barrel today with not enough left for home consumption. All dealers except one who had 400 barrels have sold out or lost their supply.

Mrs. Felix King, Mrs. Edward Nadeau and others are suffering with burns on the neck and shoulders, sustained while escaping from their burning homes and passing along the streets Monday night. The relief committee meets daily and active service is being rendered constantly. Much clothing has been dispensed.

SOME FLEECING SUITS

The man of wealth must nowadays have a care as to the character of the women whom he allows to make his acquaintance outside his own city or town if he does not want to have a blackmail suit on his hands with breach of promise or something else as the pretext.

The female adventuresses who trump up suits of one kind or another for the purpose of fleecing wealthy men are made more numerous by the ease with which they get through the divorce court. In the majority of cases the wealthy man settles, even though he is not guilty, just to avoid the notoriety of defending himself against such a suit.

THE LATE COL. MCCLURE AND HIS WORK.

The death of Col. Alexander Kelley McClure in his 82nd year removes one of the old-time journalists who devoted his talents largely to a defense of popular rights against political rings, grafters and demagogues. He had been for many years a prominent figure in the political and journalistic life of Pennsylvania, and few men of his day performed better service for the state and the city in which he lived.

Col. McClure was a man of many attainments. As a writer he was bold, clear, incisive and prolific. His vision was true and his instincts humane and honorable. He was the foe of political bosses and of the corruption that usually follows in their wake. This was clearly shown while he was at the head of the Philadelphia Times, a paper which became remarkable throughout the United States for its advocacy of clean government and its devotion to the rights of the people in general.

Col. McClure's example is worthy of imitation by the younger journalists of today. If journalism has a mission it is to serve the people, to stand for the public good, to expose shams and humbugs, to prevent political corruption whether by opposing the election of bad men to office or by turning the searchlight of publicity upon the officials who conspire to rob the city, the state or the nation. It was a grievous loss to Philadelphia and indeed to the entire state of Pennsylvania when business reverses and advancing years combined to remove Col. McClure from the field of journalism in which he was such an able and conspicuous leader.

DR. WASHINGTON AND THE NEGRO PROBLEM.

The lecture by Booker T. Washington before the High school alumni Wednesday evening was highly interesting and instructive. It brought to the attention of the audience the various problems confronting the negroes in the south; and the fact that Dr. Washington is himself one of the chief factors in promoting the education, the industry and the progress of the negro race in the south. The institution over which he presides is one of the most important, but there are scores of others working along the same lines, that is, in teaching the people the art of self help.

The mere ability to read and write would not uplift the negroes to any great extent, although of course these are among the foremost essentials, because after the negro learns to read and write he is prepared to advance along other lines of knowledge and activity most essential for his industrial development.

The purpose of the education is to develop self-help and self-reliance as well as to impart knowledge. There is no doubt whatever that the negro race in the south is making progress wherever these self-help institutions are doing their work among the people. It was well demonstrated by Dr. Washington that a spread of the practical education given under his direction at the Tuskegee institute would prevent the commission of crime and the consequent lynchings. It would teach the negroes self-reliance, self-respect, independence and obedience to law.

He demonstrated also that the negro race is not as some people suppose incapable of high education and development. The work of the educational institutions in the south have demonstrated that. Give them but fair opportunities and they will advance rapidly in spite of the fact that they have been oppressed, neglected, abused and calumniated.

It is true as he said that when anything of a criminal nature occurs in the south it is heralded all over the country; but when the negroes build houses, establish banks, start new industries or make progress in other lines, the rest of the country hears nothing about it; and so it is that while we hear little that is good from the south, yet the people in various states are making steady progress. In some places it is slow, of course, on account of lack of opportunity; but in others it is as rapid as could be expected. The states do not expend much money for education in the south and education of the young is not compulsory as it is here. Nevertheless, the percentage of illiterates is being reduced and the negro is showing an aptitude for adapting himself to a higher state of civilization than that to which he has been accustomed. All these things are very encouraging and go to show that only a wise policy by the government is needed to solve the negro problem. Industrial education of the self-help character prescribed by Dr. Washington is one of the most essential. The negro will also require of course to be brought under religious influences that will impress upon him his responsibility to himself, to his neighbor and God so that he may become imbued with Christian principles that will make him a peaceful and law-abiding citizen. Three things are necessary, therefore, for the complete uplift of the negro race. These are the school, the church and institutions for self-help and industrial training. After these have done their work the enforcement of law will become an easy matter. It is the fault of the government that lynchings are allowed to occur at frequent intervals without bringing the guilty parties to justice. If the legal authorities convicted some of the lynchers and sent them to the gallows there would soon be an end to lynching in the south. That is one of the blots upon the south that should be removed without further delay. In no other civilized land could a lynching take place without any attempt to punish the offenders and not until the south has stamped out this evil will the negro race feel that they are treated on an equality with the white people.

Did it hurt him? No, it cured him; Mr. Fletcher had assured him of the virtue in a chew. Chew the oysters, chew the chowder, chew the fish and chew the meat, chew the smallest crumb to powder, chew up everything you eat; chew boiled rice and chew the curry, chew the pudding, chew the sauce, chew them slowly, never hurry; chew, for time is only dross. Pimples, Rash, Eruptions, Etc., Quickly Eradicated by New Skin Remedy.

Since its discovery one year ago, postmark the new skin remedy has in its extraordinary accomplishments exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the eminent specialist, who gave it to the world. It has cured thousands of cases of eczema and eradicated facial and other disfigurements of years standing. The terrible itching attending eczema is stopped with the first application, giving proof of its curative properties at the very outset.

In less serious skin afflictions, such as pimples, rash, herpes, blackheads, acne, bather's itch, etc., results show after an overnight application, only a small quantity being required to effect a cure. Those who use postmark for these minor skin troubles can now avail themselves of the special 50-cent package, recently adopted to meet such needs. Both the 50-cent package and the regular $2 jar may now be obtained in Fallis &amp; Burkshaws, Carter &amp; Sherburne's and other leading drug stores in Lowell.

Ambassador Takahira, of Japan, will deliver the baccalaureate address at the graduating exercises of the University of Illinois at Champaign. He will leave Washington for the west on Thursday.

Miss Margaret Baylor, formerly of Boston, has accepted the superintendence of an institution in Cincinnati for working girls, modelled on the lines of the Franklin Square House, Rev. James O. White, has raised money enough among public-spirited people of that city, including Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Taft, to provide a hundred-room building, with which the enterprise will begin its work.

In the belief that the active work of the Baptist ministry is more congenial to his tastes and better fitted to his ability, Dr. W. R. Hutchinson, for two years president of Arcadia university, has resigned, and will assume an active pastorate. The resignation is effective at once, but Dr. Hutchinson has not yet decided upon his future place of work. His two years at Arcadia have been fruitful ones for the institution, and it was with great regret that the board of government accepted his resignation. Dr. Hutchinson, who is forty-eight years old, graduated from Arcadia in 1886. He studied theology at Newton, Toronto, and Rochester, N. Y. seminaries. He has held pastorates at Quebec and at Topeka and Lawrence in Kansas. It was from the

When the explosion occurred Philomeno with the others at once jumped into the water. The flames had burned her face painfully and her clothing was ablaze, but being an expert swimmer she thought only of her companions. Near her was Mary Palermo, aged 18, floundering helplessly, and swimming up to her, Philomeno held the girl's head above the water and swam with her to a nearby log where she left her charge and turned back to an unknown Italian youth called Nick. There the three clung until two boys in a row boat picked them up. The others were rescued by the drawbridge at the Charlestown bridge. None of the injured is fatally hurt. The launch is a total loss.

MISS MAUDE ADAMS AS JOAN OF ARC IN GREAT PAGEANT IN HARVARD'S STADIUM

BLOCKADED

Mayor Brown Urges Its Observance

The following "flag day" proclamation, requesting a wide observance of the day, has been issued by Mayor Brown:

Lowell, Mass., June 11, 1909.

To the People of Lowell:

The flags of our great nation will wave with peculiar significance on Monday, June 14, which is the 122d anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes. It was adopted by the old congress when the new-born republic was struggling into life. Our heroes first went to combat under it when Washington was their commander-in-chief. In the days of adversity we have turned to it for support. In these days of peace and prosperity we give it to the winds as the expression of our thankfulness and joy. It has been made sacred by holy associations; but the highest and most endearing remembrances we have of it are those of our fathers who battled for freedom and independence under it, and who met in civil strife that it might be preserved as our symbol of sovereignty and power.

The people of our city, with a patriotic appreciation of this day, which will be given such a widespread recognition on Monday, should assist in the proper observance of the anniversary, and make "Flag Day" in Lowell one of patriotic sentiment as well. Let the flags be unfurled in every section of the city at sunrise from our public buildings, our schools, and our churches, and let every citizen have a share in this anniversary by displaying from the house-tops the United States colors.

Americans venerate their flag as they love their country, but there are times we forget the true significance of the colors. The soldiers and officers of our regular army and of the militia forces always salute the flag when it passes by. Our veneration and love for the colors should be so great that as private citizens we should never allow the colors or uncased standards to pass us without our heads being bowed in honor raised in salute.

Our school children are being taught the history of the flag, and on Monday millions of little ones throughout the land will raise their hands and swear allegiance to the country for which it stands, one nation indissoluble. If arrangements have not already been made in our local schools, I would suggest that each teacher ready to impress the story of the Stars and Stripes, and that the ceremony of the "oath of allegiance" be followed by the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

The first official action taken with regard to a national flag was on June 14, 1775, when the Continental congress passed a resolution: "That the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

It seems that the first use of the Stars and Stripes on land was at Fort Stanwix, where a hastily improvised flag was raised over some captured British colors. In 1818 the number of states having increased to 20, congress enacted that the number of stripes be reduced to thirteen (one having been added with each new state), to typify the original thirteen states, and that the number of stars be increased to twenty; and that "on the admission of every new state into the Union, one star be added to the union of the flag, and that such addition shall take effect on the Fourth of July next, succeeding such admission." This in brief is the history of the flag which now flies unquestioned over the country and her possessions, and for whose preservation thousands of our fathers and countrymen have sacrificed their lives.

It would be fitting, it seems to me, if in every pulpit and class room, some mention were made on Sunday of this anniversary. And as we pass the noble banner, or it passes us, not only on Monday next, but on every day in the year, may we sing in our hearts,

"Forever may it wave
Over the land of the free
And the home of the brave."

(Signed)

THE INCOME TAX "I'M INNOCENT"

Will Not be Considered Until June 18

BOSTON, June 12.—The production of Schiller's "Joan of Arc" in the Harvard stadium at Cambridge, June 22, will be one of the most remarkable theatrical performances ever seen in America. The leading role of Joan of Arc will be taken by Miss Maude Adams, who will be supported by 3000 people. The drama will be presented under the management of Mr. Charles Frohman, whose lieutenants have been hard at work on the production for months. Miss Adams will ride a milk white steed of Arabian descent, and she and her horse had many rehearsals in a New York riding academy. In the battle scene the horse ridden by Joan will gallop at full speed across the great stadium. The 3000 supernumeraries, whose costumes, arms and armor are faithful reproductions from models of the period of the play, have been drilled in the stadium. The great pageant will be presented for the benefit of the Germanic museum at Harvard, which has for its mission the spread of German culture in America.

AN INCREASING USE OF RED GUM

The lumber industry of the country has been provided with much valuable information by the investigations which have been made through the scientific study of many species of trees, against the use of which there has been a prejudice for one reason or other,

and from an economic standpoint

this is one of the most important phases of the forest work of the government.

The latest discoveries of valuable qualities in a former neglected species resulted after an investigation of the red gum, sometimes commercially called "satin walnut," which finds its home in the hardwood bottom lands and drier swamps of the south, in mixture with ash, cottonwood, and oak.

This tree is one of the commonest timber trees of the south, reaching its best development in the deep, rich soil of the bottoms, where it often attains a height of 150 feet and a diameter of five feet. Were red gum imported from distance and obtainable only at a high price, it probably would be used extensively in the manufacture of furniture, cabinet work, and interior finishing, but being a native wood and low in price, it has been discriminated against. Gradually this objection is being done away with, and the demand for red gum has increased very rapidly in the past few years.

The best grades of red gum, clear heart, find a market almost exclusively in the export trade, though a small amount is used in the United States for inside finishing.

THE NEW FANS

These Dainty Accessories
Are Especially Beautiful
This Season

FOR at least two centuries the fan has been one of the most delightful accessories of the feminine toilet. And this summer the new wind wafters are exquisitely beautiful, especially those designed to be used with period costumes, which are a fad of the season. Many lovely but inexpensive fans are to be found at a Broadway shop that deals in wares from the land of the mikado. In this display is a dainty little specimen of carved sandalwood with a painted or stamped design in soft old rose and dull green tones all over its surface. The fan is moderately priced at $1.50, and it would be reasonable at twice the amount, as a sandalwood fan is not only artistic to the eye and pleasant to the olfactory organ, but has the added advantage of combining well with most costumes. A fan of black liberty silk, spangled with steel whose sticks are inlaid with the same metal, is in the same collection and is certainly alluring enough to appeal to a Spanish donna, for who can wield the fan so successfully as the Spanish girl? And in the land of Spain the fan speaks a particular language, and gallantry requires no other mode to express its most subtle conceits than through this delicate machine.

In the hands of the powdered duchesses and marquises of Louis XIV's reign the fan was a weapon and a symbol. It had, like diplomats, a language of its own, which was learned by every woman before she entered society. With it could be expressed a wish, a promise, a refusal or a pardon. In Persia, Egypt, Greece and Rome fans were in early use. The Egyptians carried a peculiar arrangement made of a bird's wing extended, while in Greece the round peacock feather fan was the favorite. Roman ladies appeared in public wafting thin tablets of sandalwood, and a lurid light is cast on the customs of the middle ages in Italy by the fact that several dainty fans are preserved with a concealed dagger in the handle of each. The fan's first appearance in England was made in the reign of Richard II. The virgin queen, the fair Elizabeth, is said to have owned no less than twenty-seven fans, one handsome specimen costing $200, a large sum in those days. Elizabeth originated the custom that the only gift a queen could receive was a fan, and truly worthy of royalty's acceptance were these offerings, whose sticks were made of mother-of-pearl, rubies and other precious gems. And in our own day a number of society women not only collect costly fans, many of which have historical value, but they are seen using them at smart functions.

The Japanese, I believe, have the honor of inventing the first collapsible or folding fans, about 750 A.D. They have kept right on adding to their clever inventions in this direction. Their latest idea of the collapsible type is a charming affair that looks when closed like a bunch of pink roses, but when a little silk string hidden among the posies is pulled a good sized fan of white silk appears with a border of pink roses. These fans have been favorite graduating presents this year. Another lovely little fan of oriental origin is a round affair of white silk covered with cherry blossoms in natural coloring, done in a silky fabric. On the reverse side is this verse in Japanese characters:

Shitokimono Yamabe
Gokorowa
Hito tosawa
Ashime niwou
Yama Sakura kana.

Translated into English it would read something like this: If you should ask the Japanese where is the Japanese heart he would point to the cherry blossoms waving in the morning sun. There is the Japanese heart.

The decoration of fans has always proved fascinating to French artists, and such masters as Fragonard, Boucher, Watteau and Lancret did not consider the painting of lovely figures on the dainty fans as beneath their dignity. In the Louis XIV period they were beautifully finished by the four Martin brothers with a bright varnish that gave the painting an appearance of enamel which is known even to this day as "Vernis Martin." A number of the handsomest fans of the summer are copies of the work of these old French masters, and when hung from chains of gold or semiprecious stones the effect is quaint and lovely. There is, too, a fancy for suspending these tiny fans of the season from black grosgrain ribbon and carrying them over the wrist.

One could write indefinitely about fans of the past and present, but there is a pretty mythological origin that is pleasant to remember in connection with them which runs as follows: As Psyche was sleeping one day on a bank of flowers Zephyr's wings kept twisting over her. After a time jealous Cupid plucked off one of Zephyr's wings and gave it to Psyche that she might ever have cooling breezes.

Narrow Sphere of the Sex

MILLE. CLAIRE DUREUX.

THE reason so many women are doleful is that they do not take after it is in great demand.

Now that bric-a-brac is out of style women have learned to depend upon beauty of line and spacious effects in designing their interior decoration effects, and the home is much better aired and swept.

These good mothers and housekeepers never take interest in anything save what relates to their craft. Now and then they dabble in a little poetry or fiction, but that is their extreme limit. When they subscribe to a magazine, even, it is apt to be one dealing with household matters.

Now, the great thing in this world both for men and women is to keep well balanced. When we allow ourselves to go along one solitary line we become cranks of a mild or rabid sort.

When you feel yourself drifting toward the impractical, read technical articles, diet yourself on common sense.

When you think only of your own affairs and business, read the daily papers and interest yourself in the sorrows and achievements of other people.

Broaden out, you women, and make your scope of interest the whole world. How many members of my sex there are who have never been taught to sew!

This is a disgrace, and I say shame on the girl who is not able to make her own dresses and trim her own hats! She may never need to do so, but how helpless she is if she doesn't know how!

The mothers are to blame without a doubt both when they neglect to teach this craft and when they teach it in an unattractive manner.

Let the little girl make something for herself instead of hemming endless towels and pillowcases. Even if it is only a handkerchief it will rouse her interest. Teach her to mend her own clothes early in life and to take pride in the fact that they are kept neat and trim.

And perhaps the best way of all is to help her to make dolls' clothes. Miniature patterns come for them as correctly designed as those for real people, and the little girl who makes dolls' clothes correctly will not have much difficulty later on with her own.

It takes tact to arouse interest in occupations which the average child finds dull, but if you bring in the personal element half the battle is won.

It does one's heart good to see how women all over the world are improving. Of course the idle rich do something foolish every now and then, but I am speaking of the great mass of women.

In the old days when a thing went wrong the average wife and mother would weep and wring her hands. Now she gets up and does something to remedy it.

We are becoming more and more simple in our tastes and manners upon all attempts at stiff formality in her court. Her favorite residence is an old country place near the village of Apeldoorn. There she has a model farm and a private flower garden which she manages herself.

She has pet dogs and ponies and little afraid of fresh air. The wife is pigeons which settle on her shoulders the one who wants the window open.

The latter, indeed, are apt to be a unique is the arrangement of the music sheet at the elbow and are of the evolving his scientific discovery his wife was making biscuits for him or stirring soup, and—oh, me! oh, my!—when lunchtime came around, if he didn't have something good to eat, he wouldn't be make a row!

The morning tub has become prac-

And so poor Mrs. Genius was kept biding over the coal stove or doing the marketing all the time. And who knows if she hadn't been kept tired to death by her gigantic task of "feeding the brute" she might have had some fine ideas of her own.

There is no doubt of it, we eat too much, and when the day comes when we absorb uncooked or condensed food or else dine on the co-operative plan you will see what a lot more we can accomplish.

The finest social quality for either a man or a woman is to be a "good mixer."

Success of the Mixer.

The good mixer is never at a loss in whatever society she finds herself. She can listen to anything and be interested in it, from the professor who talks science to the time bound woman who prattles of her latest baby.

Self centered women are the most tiresome on earth. Give me the type of woman who is interested in all phases of the great throbbing life around her.

We are simplifying life as much as we can, and that's a good thing.

Handicapped by Men's Appetites.

A bright writer says that the reason why women have never amounted to much in the past was that men ate too much.

While Mr. Genius was painting his masterpiece, writing his classic or

Good Things to Eat

A MEATLESS DIET.

NOW that warm weather is approaching the careful housewife plans to lessen her meat bill by frequently arranging a menu minus meat. She has an immense supply of sea food upon which to draw and several satisfactory substitutes for meat, which remains very costly.

Rice is an invaluable summer dish. It may be boiled in milk, with mustard added; in the many Italian "risotto" preparations, with currants, dried fruit, etc., or with rice, beans, etc.

Hindostance, boiled in milk for dessert, with fresh fruit, with cream, with jelly or jam. Spaghetti is another palatable and nutritious substitute for meat, served with browned butter, with cracker crumbs, roasted in butter, with mozzarella cheese, with tomatoes or any of the other fresh vegetables. It may be baked in alternating layers with fish, with forced ham or hash or with fried onions.

RECIPE FOR COFFEE CAKE.
Some housekeepers do not know that a cup of strong, cold coffee is better than milk or water in making dark cakes, such as fruit, spice or gingerbread. Try this old reliable recipe and be convinced that this is so: Take one cup of butter or a half cup of butter and a half cup of lard, one cup of molasses, four cups flour, one cup strong cold coffee, a teaspoonful soda, two of cream of tartar, four eggs, a teaspoonful cloves, one and a half of cinnamon, a pint of seeded raisins, one of currants and one cup of citron. Stir butter and sugar to a cream, add spices, molasses, eggs, coffee, etc., with cream of tartar sifted through it, and last the soda dissolved in a spoonful of hot water. Bake in shallow pans or all in a round pan.

FISH CROQUETTES.
Rub together three tablespoons of flour and one of butter and stir into a half pint of rich milk. Add a teaspoonful of finely chopped parsley and a quarter teaspoonful of grated onion. Roll until it thickens, then stir in two cupfuls of cold cooked fish and let the mixture boil up again. Season with salt and pepper and set aside. When cold roll into croquettes, dip in beaten egg and breadcrumbs and fry in hot fat. Serve with peas, cress or fresh string beans, garnished with slices of hard boiled eggs.

PEPPERMINT DROPS.
Put a cup and a half of granulated sugar and a half cupful of cold water into saucepan over fire and stir constantly until sugar is dissolved. Cook for about ten minutes. Take from fire and beat vigorously until mixture begins to thicken. Then add six drops of oil of peppermint, enough to make the flavor strong. Drop from a spoon on oiled paper and set in a cool place to harden.

COOKING UTENSILS.
All greasy cooking utensils can be made beautifully clean by filling with water and a generous handful of washing soda immediately after the food has been dished and put upon the stove to boil.

When dishwashing time comes an energetic whisk or two with a wire brush will dislodge all fragments, and the most repulsive task of the day is done.

FOR SUMMER WEDDING GOWNS.
There may never come a time when another material is placed over satin as the first favorite for wedding gowns. The heavy kind is not available for a summer ceremony, but muslin is a good weave and especially satin muslin. These are clinging, cool and light in texture.

The greatest trials of making wedding gowns calls for more material than the recent fashions have allowed, and therefore the thin fabric can be draped in sweeping lines.

MILK TO EXTINGUISH FLAME.
Did you ever try extinguishing a candle with a cold lamp with milk? It is much better than water if it happens to be at hand, as it mixes with the oil and puts out the flame quickly.

CARE OF FURNITURE

Ways In Which It May Be Treated to Preserve
Its Beauty

WITH its brilliant surface unscratched, free from bruises and stains, its beautiful tones and ever changing lights and shadows, fine furniture is an absolute joy to those on the alert for wood effects. On the other hand, to the eye of the careful observer it may become a constant annoyance, and this from nothing else than pure neglect. Furniture, however well designed and made, however valuable from association, is ruined in appearance by dirt, scratches, stains, ink marks, white water marks and the like. Every one knows or ought to know that these are remediable defects. But not every one knows how to cure them. All can learn, however, and I am going to give in this story the results of my own and other people's experience in keeping good furniture in condition and restoring to beauty that which has been neglected.

Supposing the furniture to be sound and clean, as things go, the ordinary maid's idea of cleaning is to "give a good rub up" or to use some kind of polishing paste or liquid. After this treatment the furniture will look bright for awhile unless one should peer into the corners and find the white dust hiding in crevices and portions of moldings or carved work. All rubbing and polishing are labor in the wrong place unless the first process of cleaning has been thoroughly carried out. There are many ways of doing this. Some housekeepers use cold tea, vinegar and water in equal parts. Either application is good, although my preference is for the cold tea, which seems to cleanse more effectively than anything else. Whatever is used, it must not be swabbed all over the piece of furniture as if a ship's deck were being treated to its morning bath, but with soft clean cloths, dampened with the tea or whatever is used, and then rubbed all over the surface and dried carefully at once. The crevices and crannies are best reached by a tiny pad of cotton on the end of an orange stick or an old penholder. If there is much dirt to vanish, it means very hard work, much rubbing, much renewing of the tea water. Thus free the article from dirt and greasiness and subsequent polishing will be an easier task and the final result a very great satisfaction. Slight scratches may be removed by being anointed with linseed oil (boiled) at night and then rubbed next day with linseed oil and turpentine in equal proportions. If they are very deep they require professional treatment.

When the surface has not been scratched, but bruised or indented, the bruised part can be dampened with warm water first, and then a pad of brown paper folded many times, so that it conducts heat only slowly to the wood below, is laid on the part to be restored, the paper being soaked thoroughly in warm water before application. Now comes the critical part of the operation, for an iron, warm but decidedly not hot, must be held over the damp paper. The pressure must not be hard, but the iron should be kept in position until all moisture has been evaporated. If this is done directly a bruise is observed, one application is almost sure to raise the surface of the wood up again, but old bruises require several treatments.

Immediate removal of ink stains is the obvious first aid to the injured wood, but there are stains of this nature that are never detected until they have attained a good old age, and then they require careful management. A small quantity of nitro applied with a camel's hair brush will remove very obstinate and hardened ink stains. Six drops of the nitro to a teaspoonful of water is sufficient applied until the ink has dissolved and disappeared. Then rub the place with a damp cloth and polish with a soft duster.

Worm-in wood are almost impossible to cure, but they may be kept down by the use of paraffin applied to the holes by a small brush. Daily worn furniture should be drenched with paraffin out doors. Still, this is a dangerous process, and the best method, after all, is to get it treated by a professional cabinetmaker—either that or get rid of it.

To restore very badly neglected furniture, especially of the inlay variety, the first process is to remove all the polish with methylated spirit. Next rub with fine sandpaper until the original wood is reached. I have an old bureau that for years inhabited the attic and looked in its disgraced state as if it were encrusted with dim black scurf. After it was treated with methylated spirit and sandpaper the lovely old thins of satin lace were found, and when polishing was done the ranksmell looking substance of the bureau room came down to be admitted and loved in a place of honor, but it involved much hard work. The polish was done by wiping the whole surface with boiled linseed oil in which a little mastic varnish had been dissolved each night and rubbing it in, and polishing it off each day for a long time. Doubtless a professional man would have done it in a shorter time and by some secret method of his own, but no shop polished bureau could have made the owner put up with such a terrible restoration.

When dishwashing time comes an energetic whisk or two with a wire brush will dislodge all fragments, and the most repulsive task of the day is done.

THE MAN A GIRL LIKES.
You couldn't get a girl to confess it, but the man she most admires is often.

He whose likes never coincide with her own.

He who tells her point blank that he hates to eat powder on her face.

He who never says that some other girl looks pretty.

He who always appears interested in her, etc., etc. etc.

A SUMMER CHURCH COSTUME.

Very attractive is this costume, designed for church wear during the early days of spring. It is of a cool shade of rose, with a faint pattern of green. The sleeves have the new full shade of rose, which is a shade darker than green. The hat is of black moquette, lined with green willow feathers, set in the back, which is a very popular fashion. A green satin panel with a striped border of black crocheted buttons and loops completes this dainty costume.

RINGLING BROS.

Gave the Truly Greatest Show on Earth

There are many greatest shows on earth, but the truly greatest, as far as merit and size are concerned, is Ringling Bros. which yesterday played on the Fair Grounds to about 5000 people in the afternoon and over 15,000 in the evening. The big tent seats 16,000 people, and to the ordinary observer it appeared to be packed at last evening's show. But the circus employes estimated the attendance at 15,000, and that is near enough to give one an idea of the immense throng that gathered under the big top.

The features on the program have all been written up in advance and hence need no description at this time. But there are several important features about the Ringling Bros. show which contrasted materially to its greatness and which were left by the managers if not noticed individually. In the first place, promptness is one of the cardinal virtues of this great organization. The street parade was advertised for 10 o'clock and on the minute it started away. When the big show started afternoon and evening, the next act on the program was out at the ring waiting for its successors to get out of the way, so that there wasn't a moment's delay. Cleanliness is another feature of the show. The animals, wild and domestic, showed cleanliness, the wagons and harnesses were slick and spick, the menagerie was in model of cleanliness and the offensive odor common to most menageries was absent. The people connected with the show, both performers and baslers, were neat of appearance. The women were the best looking lot ever seen with a circus. The ushers within the big tent were courteous and also of good appearance.

There were more acts than the ordinary circus carries along and the show ran nearly an hour longer than any others that have been here. It had all the features of other circuses and a number of entirely new acts which are world-beaters in their line. Its clowns were numerous and exceedingly funny and a particularly good feature of the clown acts were the "fakes" on the audience furnished by women connected with the circus who distributed themselves among the audience and remained quiet like ordinary spectators until their time came, when they proceeded to make "fakes" that fooled many of the wise ones. To mention the individual acts that pleased would take columns, there were so many good ones, suffice it to say that without any exaggeration this year's Ringling Bros. circus was by all odds the best ever seen in Lowell. None that has come here thus far has ever approached it in size, originality, and merit in every particular. There is not a stick of deadwood in the whole aggregation and the chestnut jokes, pranks and freaks are supplemented by something new, up-to-date, and clean-shaven.

Mrs. Arthur Chandler and children, the Misses Irene, Jeanie, Florence and Master Eddie of Hopkinton, N. H., are visiting her sister, Mrs. Adolph Shimer at Brookside, Dracut, for two weeks. Motorman P. F. Lowe of the Boston & Northern street railway, who has been in poor health for the past year, is spending an extended vacation in northern New York. His many friends hope to see him return much improved in health.

14-YEAR-OLD BOY MADE SUCCESSFUL ASCENSION

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—A large number of spectators were greatly impressed by a successful ascension to a height of twenty-five feet achieved yesterday by fourteen year old Irving Barnes in an aeroplane of his own invention and construction. He was cheered as his peculiar looking machine slowly circled about the schoolyard, attaining each second a greater height. When the yard had been twice circumnavigated the youth brought his craft safely to the earth.

SLAVONIA ASHORE

Steamer May be Total Wreck

LONDON, June 11.—The steamer reports that its steamer Slavonia, which left New York on June 5th, and, respectively, were close by and the Marconi message of Captain Peterson would seem to indicate there was no loss of life or injury to any one. The transfer of passengers, was, however, doubtless accomplished with the usual thrills and dangers attendant on the shifting of nervous human beings at sea.

The Slavonia is a twin screw steamship of 10,604 gross tons, 1516 feet long, with a 50 foot beam, and is 22 feet deep. Her commander is Captain A. G. Dunning. The vessel is comparatively new, having been built at Sunderland, England, in 1903.

THE PASSENGERS

WILL BE TAKEN TO EUROPEAN PORT

NEW YORK, June 12.—The first telegram from Captain Dunning of the wrecked steamer Slavonia was received today by the agents of the Cunard line in this city. It was forwarded by the agent of the line in Liverpool and read as follows:

"Shavona ashore south side of Flores Island. Passengers safely landed; proceeding cabin on steamship Princess Irene, third class on steamship Batavia."

From the wording of this message, the Cunard agents were of the opinion that the passengers were first landed on Flores Island and then taken on board the steamer.

Although further details of the wreck and the rescue of the Slavonia's 410 passengers were awaited with great interest in the offices of the Hamburg-American line which owns the Batavia and the North German Lloyd line which owns the Princess Irene, no additional information was received and the agents were inclined to the belief that they would have no further reports from either the Princess Irene or the Batavia until these two ships reached a continental port.

Flores Island, on which the Slavonia was stranded, is the most westerly of First reports that the Cunard had run aground reached here shortly before four o'clock in a message to the North German-Lloyd from Captain Peterson of the Princess Irene, saying:

"Took on board Princess Irene cabin passengers from S. S. Slavonia at southwest of Flores Island. The 300 steerage passengers on Batavia. Slavonia probably total wreck."

When the foregoing was received the Cunard line had no advises whatsoever and heard first of the accident through the North German-Lloyd.

The list of cabin passengers on the Slavonia as given by the Cunard line contains no addresses but the first class passengers are practically all Americans, among them fifteen or twenty in a Cleveland tourist party."

Mr. Bennett was from Cambridge, Mass. He disappeared from the steamer Thursday night while his wife was with a number of friends in the dining room.

BERKLEY, Cal., June 12.—A somnambulistic stroll during which he dove head first from a second story window to the ground 25 feet below resulted yesterday in the serious injury of Francis E. Steele, editor of the California Orient, a university publication and a member of the track squad. His injuries consist of a fractured ankle, painful lacerations about the breast and two missing teeth. Upon recovering consciousness Steele said that he dreamed that he was diving into the ocean.
